EASTERN DATES TO JUNE 6.

WASHINGTON CITY

Miscellaneous.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—On Tuesday the wife of Gen Robert E. Lee made a visit to Arlington, her former home, now used as a National Cemetery, 15,000 Union soldiers having been buried in.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The Department of State is in receipt of information from our Consul at Havana that Santa Rosa, American citizen, who had been imprisoned in Cuba, had been released.

Conference on Modoc Matters

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The President, Secretary of the Interior and General Sherman had a consultation to-day on the Modoc question. This was the first formal consideration of the subject by officers of the Government, and preliminary steps have been taken to determine the point at issue, namely: What will be done with the Modoc prisoners. In the first place it seems to be the understanding that the Secretary of the Interior has no power or discretion in the premises, or at least will take no present action—the Indians having violated their treaty obligations by resorting to hostilities, and thus placed themselves beyond the care of his Department. Secondly, the United States troops having conducted operations against them, their custody belongs to the military, the same as prisoners of war or other persons taken in arms against the authority of the United States. Thirdly, these premises being settled, the question as to what shall be done with the Modoc prisoners—whether they shall be tried by a military commission or be remitted to the civil Courts—will be submitted to the Attorney General by the military authorities for his opinion, which will govern the law in the case, and with this course the President, Secretary of the Interior and Gen Sherman are in accord.

Survivors of the Polaris Arrive in Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The United States steamer Frolic, with survivors of the Polaris on board, arrived at the Navy Yard yesterday about 2 o'clock. As soon as the vessel arrived the commandant of the Navy Yard telegraphed the fact to Secretary Robeson, and about half past 2 the Secretary, in company with Commodore Reynolds, Chief of the Bureau of Equipment and Recruiting, drove to the Navy Yard. Secretary Robeson went on board the vessel immediately, and sent for Capt. Tyson, of the Polaris. The Secretary inquired, first of all, concerning the condition of the survivors. He was gratified to learn that they were all in good health and had nearly recovered from the fatigue and hardships of their long trip in the Arctic regions. Secretary Robeson will visit the Frolic to-morrow and institute a Court of Inquiry, to be composed of naval officers. This will be conducted in the regular way. Witnesses will be sworn and their testimony taken down.

Treasury Matters.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The Secretary of the Treasury calls for the redemption of $10,000,000 coupon bonds and $4,000,000 registered bonds, to be paid September 6th.

A Would-be Barnum.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—An enterprising individual writes to the Government from Tiffin, Ohio, offering to pay $60,000 for the privilege of exhibiting Captain Jack throughout the country during sixty days. The showman promises to treat him well and return him to the Government at the expiration of sixty days, provided he does not commit suicide, in which case the Government is to receive only $1,000 per day for the time he remains in the showman's hands alive. It is proposed to pay $80,000 upon the delivery of Jack at Chicago, and the remainder at the close of two months.

EASTERN STATES.

BOSTON, June 5.—In the Senate this morning the bill appropriating five hundred thousand dollars for the completion of the Hoosac tunnel, was ordered to its third reading.

BALTIMORE, June 5.—Chas. R. Henderson, on trial for the murder of Dr. Merryman Cole Jan 5, 1872, not guilty.

The Yale Party.

NEW HAVEN, June 5.—Professor Marsh and party of Yale College, started to-day west to continue the geological explorations of the last year. The party will spend the summer in the Rocky mountains, the autumn probably on the Pacific coast, and will return about the last of December.

ST LOUIS, June 5.—A dispatch from Jefferson City says Gov. Woodson will in a few days advertise the Missouri Pacific railroad to be sold on the 19th of December next, to satisfy a State lien of $8,000,000, the release of which, by the Legislature of 1868, was declared by the Legislature of last winter to be unconstitutional.

Railway Election.

CHICAGO, May 6.—The annual election of Directors of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad, was held here yesterday afternoon, and resulted in the election of the old Board, with the exception of [illegible] Keep, of New York, taken the place of J. W. Burke of the same city. Jay Gould was in the city but did not attend the election, and his votes being cast by proxy. The old officers were all elected.

Wonderful Performance at Billiards.

CHICAGO, May 6.—A match game of billiards (three ball carom) was played here last night between Francis Ubassy, the celebrated French expert, and John Bessinger of this city. The game was 300 points up, Ubassy giving his opponent the odds of discount. Bessinger won by a score of 300 to 205. Ubassy made an unprecedented score of 117 in the last inning but one.

Sentence Commuted.

[illegible], June 6.—Griffin and Mordecai after dressing for the gallows to-day, and while at their devotions received commutation of their sentence to imprisonment for life. A large crowd had assembled to witness the execution.

Crime and Criminals.

HAZLETON (Pa) June 6.—Henry Scufferberg yesterday demanded money from a widow named Reilly, which she refused. He beat and stabbed her severely—also a little girl in the same house.

BINGHAMTON (N Y) June 6.—Mrs Carring has been fully committed on the charge of causing the death of her mother, Rosa Corrily. A post mortem examination showed fatal wounds on the head, finger marks on the throat, and bruises generally on various parts of the body.

The Young Albany Twisters challenge the Albany Base Ball Club to play a single match game, according to the rules of 1873, at Albany, on Saturday, June 14th, for the champion belt, to be given by the citizens of Albany.

The County Court awarded the contract for building a bridge across the Clackamas river to the Pacific Bridge Company, for the sum of $5,205. The bridge is to be built after the Smith Patent Truss plan, and will be the cheapest bridge the county could have erected.

C. P Burkhart, President of the Linn County Agricultural Society, received, a few days since, a complimentary ticket to attend the National Agricultural College, which met at Indianapolis on the 28th ult. He did not attend on that ticket, but felt the compliment notwithstanding.

The Statesman is informed that Superintendent Odeneal, acting under orders from the Department of the Interior, has appointed Messrs. J. N. Matheny, Thomas H. Cox and Maj M P Berry Commissioners to proceed to the Wallowa valley and appraise the value of settler's improvements within the boundaries of the Indian reservation, with a view to their removal. The above named gentlemen will start from Salem about next Sunday.

The house of Messrs. Stiller & Sheper near Scholl's Bridge, in Washington county, was broken into by some thieves on Friday of last week and pretty thoroughly ransacked. Several articles were taken by the thieves, but the owners of the house pursued the robbers so hotly that they only succeeded in getting away with a coat and some other articles of small value. Our informant advises farmers to watch their houses closely, as there are rascals prowling through the country, who take every advantage to steal from dwellings when the tenants are absent.

The stockholders of the Albany Farmers' Company, in accordance with previous published announcement, met at Albany, June 2. A goodly number of farmers were present on the occasion. The minutes of a previous meeting were read and approved. On motion, the books were brought forward, examined, and stock to the amount of $7,5[illegible] reported taken. C. P. Burkhart was elected President, and Messrs Blevins and Churchill Secretaries. The following Directors were chosen: C. F Crawford, A. Wheeldon, M. Wilds, G W Vernon, F. S Powell, G. F. Simpson, J M Churchill. The meeting then adjourned, the Directors being notified to meet next day for the purpose of organizing. On the next day the Directors met and organized by electing G. W. Vernon, President. Mr John Blevins was continued as Secretary. Bids for building material, lumber, stone, etc, were opened, but their consideration was postponed. Grounds for location were also visited, but no action taken relative to them.

The Mantorville (Minn.) Express says of the Surveyor General of Washington Territory:

Capt McMicken has just been appointed by the President, Surveyor General of Washington Territory, and will take his departure to engage in the duties of his office before long. While we are sorry to have Capt. McMicken leave us again for the extreme West, we are sure he is a good man for the place, and congratulate the people of that Territory upon their success in securing so good a man for so important an office. His family will still remain here.

LAST SCENES IN THE MODOC WAR

Probable Fate of Captain Jack

General Davis' Policy.

The Modocs do not Fear Death

The Beginning of the End.

General Davis Hanging Arrangements Interrupted

Personnel of the Modoc Chiefs

Interview with Captain Jack.

BOYLE'S CAMP, June 5—3 P. M.—The capture of Captain Jack and all save a few of the adherents to his cause, continues to engross the attention of the officers and men in this camp. The excellent results of the last three weeks of the campaign are attributed to the strategy and diplomacy of General Davis, as well as the zeal and ability of Major Hasbrouck, Colonel Green, Col. Perry and other officers who have figured creditably in the scouts. The General planned the scouts and directed each commander how to act. His orders have been brief and to the point, and generally in effect:

"Find and fight or capture the Indians, and stay by them if possible. Do not return to camp without a brush with the foe. I will forward rations to the front."

This policy closed the Modoc war in about one month.

The campaign under the auspices of Davis dated from about the 1st of May, and is simply a series of successes. The

CHARGE OF HASBROUCK'S TROOPS

At Dry Lake achieved the initial victory over the redskins in the lava bed, and was the turning point in the contest that had lasted for months. Defeat caused the disaffection among the Modocs that led to a division of the numerical strength of the band. The second time Major Hasbrouck came across the Modocs he pursued them until his horses could neither walk nor run any further, killed a warrior or two, and killed and captured squaws and compelled the Cottonwood branch of the tribe, numbering seventy souls, to surrender through fear of extermination. This delegation came into Fairchild's ranch. Since the Fairchild surrender Cols. Green and Perry, and Majs. Hasbrouck, Jackson, Cresson and Trimble, have had leading commands in scouts, and each has worked long and well. The late captives were fairly earned. The Modocs had little authority in the matter. Jack told young Applegate yesterday that he yielded because he could not help himself. Officers are looking carefully among the baggage of the Modocs in hopes of discovering mementoes of comrades slain during the struggle in the lava bed. Nothing worthy of note, save the has been discovered. The opinion prevails that Gen. Davis will hang or shoot Capt. Jack, Boston Charley and Sconchin, without awaiting any suggestions from the civil authorities; whereat great joy prevails in camp.

I had another interview with Boston Charley this morning on the Modoc question. He says the Modocs believe that the majority of the tribe will be shot. They are prepared to die like men. Answering a question as to whether Jack is concerned about his fate, he said: "No; Capt. Jack does not care for anything; He will not speak to any person save his sister Mary. Capt. Jack is a brave man. Women care for death,—warriors never."

Young Applegate, one of the guides with Perry's party, to-day related to me the exact manner in which Jack was taken. The Warm Springs and the troops suddenly discovered that they had been following a blind trail, and of course felt deeply chagrined. The command halted at once. The scouts dismounted and crawled about on hands and knees. Tracks, rocks, bushes, grass, and every other object in the immediate neighborhood were closely inspected. The scene was a curious and interesting one. In the front, the ground was covered with

MEN CRAWLING AS REPTILES.

Now and then they paused to munch wild celery, and again they wiggled rapidly forward. A scout on the extreme right called Applegate's attention to the print of a moccasin on a small mesa of pulverized lava. The discovery was signalled to Col. Perry, who, with his cavalry, deployed out over a vast tract of ground. A force posted as skirmishers was on the alert, and ready to order a forward movement. Quickly and quietly the troops and the scouts formed a semicircle, the two ends of the line resting on the right and left of a rocky ridge near the canyon through which Willow creek runs. When the arrangements for the advance had been perfected, several of the scouts and Applegate began work on the trail. This little party saw, from the character of the prints, that the Indians had been running. They saw where they had leaped from rock to rock to avoid leaving any tracks. In the rear of this trail, distant twenty or thirty yards, was another, where several Indians had passed along, each stepping in one track.

THE TRAIL GREW WARMER AND WARMER.

With difficulty the Warm Springs were prevented from ringing out a war whoop. Perry reached the bank of the creek with his end of the line, and halted. It was evident that the Indians had taken refuge in the canyon within a short time. Here the command was divided, Perry taking one side of the creek, and Major Trimble the other. The scouts passed on ahead of Trimble, but in sight of Perry. Carbines were held ready for immediate use, and precautions against surprise were taken. On went the scouts, and the troops in the rear. One of the scouts said he knew Modocs were around, and then he raised his head and snuffed the air, as if to gain news from the passing wind. Up to this time not a Modoc had been seen. A moment later, and an Indian (probably one of Jack's pickets) leaped from behind a huge boulder on the rim of the canyon and ran below and out of sight. The act was observed by both Perry and Trimble. Perry had Trimble halt, while he advanced his command near enough to bring the canyon within shooting range. Again a Modoc appeared in view. This time he glanced hurriedly about him, and saw the situation. He ran below, and in three minutes appeared a second time. He had flung his gun aside, and was undecided how to act. One of the Warm Springs cried out in Chinook jargon, "Come here, we won't hurt you." The Modoc came to the scout, and the latter, laying down his gun, grasped him cordially by the hand. The Modoc said Jack would come in if they would let him. Colonel Perry was informed how matters stood, and through Major Trimble sent three men to visit Jack. In less than five minutes

JACK CAME IN UNARMED,

And shook hands with the interviewing party. Meanwhile the Troop had been gradually closing in on all sides and were ready to fire at the word. Five squaws and seven children appeared on the scene with the baggage of the Modocs. Jack was dirty and dejected. His shirt was ragged and his knee breeches, made of cavalry pantaloons, suggested many a slide down old Grimes' cellar door. His bundles were unpacked by Lizzie (his favorite squaw) and his clothes taken out by permission of Col. Perry. He was allowed to don clean clothes from head to foot. Here we have the explanation of his arrival at Applegate's in that calico shirt. Lizzie did not change her clothes, but placed a new delaine dress over the tattered rags she was wearing. The other squaws and the children came to the camp rags and all. Jack and Lizzie rode in together on a spotted Cayuse.

Second Dispatch.

BOYLE'S CAMP, TULE LAKE PENINSULA, June 5—Evening.—The soldiers are engaged in building a strong A tent, long and low, for the reception of the Modoc captives, and a cloth court house for the purpose of holding a trial.

Col. Green's command is still scouting for missing Modocs. Bogus Charley says there are twelve Modocs at large.

Third Dispatch.

BOYLE'S CAMP, TULE LAKE PENINSULA, June 4.—Afternoon.—The infantry under Col. Mason will arrive from Fairchild's ranch this afternoon and become a part of the permanent camp at this point.

With the infantry are the Modoc captives who surrendered to Gen. Davis on Cottonwood creek. Gen. Davis and all the soldiers and Modocs at Applegate's house start for our camp to-day. There are nine warriors missing, according to the latest account. Among them is Black Jim, the scoundrel who caught Gen. Canby after he had been shot and held him while Jack used his knife, also Miller's Charley, another desperado. The captive Modocs will reach here in about half an hour. Hooka Jim and Steamboat Frank are hunting after two warriors and three squaws who are supposed to be traveling toward the Yainax Reservation. BUNKER.

FAIRCHILD'S RANCH, June 4.—No news from the front to-day. Fairchild, accompanied by Shacknasty Jim, visited the island in Klamath Lake, east of Dorris' ranch, and from Mr. Fairchild we learn that Tee Hee Jack, his squaw and three children, old Mooch and his squaw and pony will reach this place to-morrow. These Indians state that Texas John and his squaw, and old George's son and his squaw are now in the vicinity of Bogus creek, on Klamath river. There are also seven bucks who are supposed to be at some point between Clear and Goose Lakes, or in the lava bed. Ex Sheriff Burgess and Bogus Charley started this morning for Bogus creek in search of the above mentioned Indians as supposed to be in that vicinity, and are expected back to-morrow evening.

Paymaster Canby arrived here this evening from Yreka and will leave to-morrow morning for Gen. Davis' headquarters. This camp is now in charge of Quartermaster McGrier, and is forwarding all supplies now here to the Peninsula in Tule Lake.

FAIRCHILD'S RANCH, June 4, 4 P. M.—Sheepy Tom has just come in from the island in Little Klamath Lake, and brought with him Tee Hee Jack, Rosy, one squaw and three children. Lieut. Grier has ordered their arms to be taken from them, and has assigned them a tent in which to remain until they can be removed to Boyle's camp on the Peninsula. Burgess and Bogus Charley are expected back from Klamath river with other Modoc prisoners to-night. In addition to the Indians above mentioned, there are also here the following named squaws, who have figured somewhat extensively since the commencement of the Modoc trouble: Artena Chokus, One-Eyed Dixie, Old Kitty, Rosy, and three others who have not yet gained as much notoriety as their other sisters. McKAY.

Fifth Dispatch.

BOYLE'S CAMP, TULE LAKE PENINSULA, June 4, 10 A. M.—About half past three o'clock this afternoon clouds of dust arising from the winding road east of the Peninsula and in the direction of Clear Lake, announced the

APPROACH OF THE CAPTIVE MODOCS

From the Applegate Mansion, and created an excitement that, as I write, has not subsided. Soldiers and citizens, every one who could spare a few moments, rushed over the barricade and watched the procession as it entered camp and passed up the sandy stretch to the base of the bluff, where the canvas prison is located. Lieut. Chapin, of Company G, Fourth Artillery, was in the advance. Next came three large wagons loaded with Modocs and two with baggage. Rank and file of Battery G marched beside the wagons and forty mounted Warm Spring scouts held the flanks. The Warm Springs supplied the lack of music with song and war-whoop and gave the scene a tone of terrible sadness.

"WHERE IS CAPT. JACK?

Where is Capt. Jack?" was the cry among the spectators. None had the gratification of seeing the warrior's face. He had anticipated the excitement his advent would arouse, and was crouched in a corner of the wagon and completely enveloped himself in a blanket, whether through a sense of fear or shame, I know not. Near him were the leading braves of his tribe. Arriving at the prison, the wagons were relieved of their contents. Jack was chained to Sconchin, and Boston Charley to One-eyed Mose, and Sam was chained by himself. The [illegible] were placed on one side of the prison and the [illegible] opposite, with the exception that Jack's Lizzie was allowed to sit beside him and lay her hand upon his breast, and his girl of three years had the freedom of the tent.

By permission of the officer of the guard,

I ENTERED THE TENT AND TALKED WITH JACK

Through the medium of an interpreter. At first he was reticent—in fact he did not deign to notice me. His sister, Mary, who was captured by one of the scouting parties that I accompanied, and who is inclined to be affable to young [illegible], interceded in my behalf and persuaded Jack to talk. His first remark was in relation to the shackles. He said it made him feel mean to be hobbled like a horse, he was not afraid to die and had no idea of running away. As he spoke, his eyes fairly snapped, and he looked a very lion in rage. All questions pertaining to his fight he declined to answer. When asked his age, he gave me to understand that he was thirty six. Then he voluntarily entered upon a statement of his grievances against the whites. He dated his antipathy to the [illegible] to the time of the Ben Wright massacre. He said that the white men murdered the Indians years ago, and that what he had done was only paying old debts. He did not enter into details, but left the interpreter, Scar-faced Charley, to patch up the story.

CRITICAL STUDY OF THE VILLAIN.

A critical study of Jack's face corroborates the impression received at first sight. He is thoroughly Indian. His head is large, quite square, and for the present rests firmly on his shoulders. His eyes are black and bright, his face broad, and his cheek bones prominent. His nose is symmetrical and slightly aquiline, his lips thin and clean cut, and, combined with his chin, indicate that resolution of purpose that has won for him such a remarkable notoriety. His complexion is dark. His face has an unpleasant look, and his countenance is not an agreeable one to look upon. Take him all in all, he is a striking man. Place him among a thousand Indians, and he would be thought the Chief by an observing stranger. Those who have seen him marvel not that he is the leader of the Modocs. Though in chains and on the brink of eternity, he is feared and respected by the Indians about him.

STUDY OF SCONCHIN.

His nearest companion in chains, Sconchin, reminds me of Victor Hugo's famous "Criminal," the man who climbed the angle in the walls by main strength. He is fifty years of age, is wrinkled and has the villain depicted in every line of his face. He wears his hair short and stands 5 feet 9 inches in his moccasins.

BOSTON CHARLEY

Is about 25 years old. His face is expressionless. Did I not know to the contrary, I should take him for a half witted fellow. He, and Mose, and Sam, are very ordinary looking Indians. It should be remarked that all of the Indians have hairless faces.

Jack would attempt to escape if he had a chance, even at the risk of being shot down. Probably he never realized that death was inevitable until the irons were placed upon his feet. Scarfaced Charley says that Jack told him he could get clear when the white men were asleep. This was before the irons were brought into use. Gen Davis and others are satisfied that Jack did try to escape last night, and through the aid of confederates on the outside, for upon examining his shackles this morning one of the rivets of his shackles was filed nearly in two. His legs only are confined.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon, Col Mason arrived here from Fairchild's ranch with the infantry force of the expedition and the 70 Modocs who came in there a few days since. The Indians were escorted hither by Capt. Camp and Company G, of the Twelfth Infantry. Thus we have 125 captives. The guard is a large one, and has orders that render it extremely vigilant. Any Indian attempting to escape will be shot dead.

Sixth Dispatch.

BOYLE'S CAMP, June 4, Midnight.—News has reached here that Hooka Jim and Steamboat Frank made a successful scout yesterday. Cooperating with the Oregon Volunteers they trailed three warriors and five squaws to the timber mountain northeast of here, and assisted in making a capture. One of the captives is Black Jim. He is the Modoc who has bullied the settlers in this region for two or three years and committed cruel murders. The Oregonians regard him with special hatred. Only five or six Modoc warriors are now missing. The Warm Springs held a war dance this evening which was witnessed by a large audience of officers and men. The howls of the scouts annoyed the captives.

Seventh Dispatch.

BOYLE'S CAMP, June 5, 9 A. M.—Late yesterday afternoon a detail of men belonging to the artillery arrived in camp from the timber mountain near the Peninsula, with twenty juniper logs, clean and straight, and evidently not intended for use in the erection of tents or prisons. Many marveled for what purpose the timber has been obtained. This morning the secret is out. Gen. Davis gives me private information to the effect that he intends to erect a scaffold and

EXECUTE ABOUT ONE DOZEN

Of the worst murderers in the tribe at sunset to-morrow. He feels that there is no need of delay. No doubt of the guilt of the chosen victims can exist. Justice demands speedy and certain action. Even at this time he is writing out a statement of offenses that will be read to the condemned murderers this evening. Many of the men in camp have already surmised his intentions, and a kind of quiet excitement is brewing. The Modoc warriors have no friends. When it is remembered how they

MANGLED AND TORTURED THE SOLDIERS

Who were left upon the battle field, committed hellish outrages that cannot be mentioned, and how they shot down settlers without a moment's warning, there are few, I think, who can ask to have them spared. I have seen tears in the eyes of the sternest men in the army as they gazed upon the Modocs and thought of Canby, Thomas, Wright, Cranston, Howe and other friends [illegible] by these fiends. "I will close this business at once, and move to different scenes," says Gen. Davis. "I have more work to do."

Eighth Dispatch.

BOYLE'S CAMP, June 5, 10 A. M.—The regular courier from Yreka has just reached camp with a large mail. Among other official papers is one from Washington directing Gen. Davis to hold the Modocs until the authorities at the White House can investigate the [illegible] against [illegible]. This order disarranges the entire plans of the General and dampens the spirits of the camp. There will not be [illegible] at present. The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 7, 1873.

Don't be Deceived by the Two Bolters Movement.

The indications are that bogus primaries called by the committee of two bolters, will not be very largely attended with the exception of persons notoriously connected with the faction that are supporting this bolting movement. Republicans who desire to stand by the regular organization, will not be likely to encourage this disorganizing scheme with their presence. It is not so near election yet as it usually has been when the regular primaries of the party have been called, and there is every reason to suppose that in due time proceedings will be had in the primaries by the legitimate committee. At its last meeting the committee adjourned to meet at the call of the Chairman. At that meeting, as well as the preceding one, these two recalcitrant members of the committee were present and took part in the proceedings. It would certainly become them much better, professing as they do to believe a party ticket ought to be run, to stand by the usages of their party, and especially to stand by the results of the action of the committee of which they are members, and in whose deliberations they themselves have taken an active part. If these two gentlemen had just waited a few days, till the usual time for issuing a call for the primaries, they would doubtless have had an opportunity to enforce their views in the full committee; and if those views are sound it is pretty safe to say they would commend themselves to the committee and control its action. By this means the probability of two tickets calling themselves Republican would have been avoided, and the integrity of the organization preserved intact.

We are very clearly of the opinion, that in the present "perturbed state of mind" in the Republican party in this city, the future unity and prosperity of the party would be best subserved by making no party nominations at this municipal election. It can not be expected that the members of the party will act together harmoniously hereafter, if one-half of them, or more than half, support the ticket nominated by the Committee of Twenty-seven, one-third of the other half, with their organ the Bulletin, follow off the "two-bolters" movement, and the remainder join in a regular Republican ticket, as it appears will probably be the case. The movement to have the election conducted without reference to party, contemplated that in political elections hereafter, all parties would be expected to act with their respective parties the same as heretofore; it was, therefore, calculated to do no injury to party organizations, either Democratic or Republican. But this organization of bolters with its meagre two out of nine committeemen, has evidentally a purpose to go further and overturn the party entirely. This bolt, in other words, means a bolt for all the time. At least so it looks, and this view of the matter is greatly strengthened by the well-known fact that the men who are giving the action of these bolting committeemen their main support—we mean the leaders of the Holladay-Mitchell faction of the Republican party—have been for some time in repeated and close consultation with some of the most active and influential Democrats of the city and State regarding the politics of the State. That an alliance between this faction and some of the leading Democrats has been thoroughly canvassed, and its terms settled, is now a notorious fact, and all that remains to be done to consummate the transfer of the whole power of the State into the hands of the few men of both sides who have engaged in these transactions, is for these people to be hoodwinked into falling into line. We have no doubt this bolting movement is intended by those who set it up to forward that scheme; but we do not believe the two committeemen who have taken the initiative have been let into the secret of the scheme. They have been deceived and deluded into this step, not perceiving the real purposes of those who have led them into it. They will see, when it is too late, that they have been used as the means of disrupting the Republican party. The thing for those Republicans to do, who have the harmony and perpetuity of the party at heart, is to give this two-bolters movement a wide berth.

M. de Lesseps, the great civil engineer, has in contemplation a plan for an uninterrupted system of railway from Calais to Calcutta. He has broached the subject to the Czar of Russia in a letter, from which we take the following extract:

> The distance from Calais to Orenburg (Russia) is already covered almost completely by rail. There remains, therefore, for Russia only the construction of the line from Orenburg to Samarcand, fifteen hundred miles. From Samarcand to Peshawer is eight hundred and fifty miles; from Peshawer to Calcutta—already constructed—two thousand two hundred and fifty miles. Counting the way from Calais to Calcutta seventy five hundred miles, with a gap only one third of the distance, travelers from Europe can go from St. Petersburg to Calcutta in a week's time. The preliminary expenditure will be six hundred thousand dollars, and this will occupy two years.

It is believed that Russia has taken hold of the project, for it is announced that De Lesseps has organized a company to carry forward the stupendous project.

The New York Herald has been remarkably unfortunate in the matter of correspondents who have gone among the Latin races. First, O'Kelly is arrested and confined as a spy. Then Price falls into prison, and while the indignities heaped upon the latter are yet bemoaned by the Herald, comes the intelligence that one of its correspondents was captured by the Republicans of Spain, at Pena Cerrada, and that he escaped being shot only through the good offices of the British Minister. Lastly, we read that a Herald correspondent, who has been employed in Catalonia, has just been shot by the Spanish soldiery, near Barcelona. Verily, the Herald's war correspondents must "go forth taking their lives in their hands."

A Washington dispatch of May 25th, to the St. Louis Globe, says "The recent stories to the effect that Senator Mitchell of Oregon, was living under an assumed name, have caused considerable excitement among the citizens of Oregon now in Washington, as, if they should prove true, the effect will be to necessitate his retiring from the Senate. Congressman Wilson, of Oregon wrote to Mr. Mitchell on the subject a few days ago, and a reply from him is now looked for with much anxiety."

They have a pleasant set of Aldermen in Cincinnati. Here is an extract from the Commercial's report of the proceedings of the City Council, May 19th "Thomas J. Stephens knocks down his ward colleague, Mr. Johnson, for applying to him an opprobrious epithet. The council then adjourned."

The Fate of the Modocs

The all-absorbing question, what will be done with the Modoc murderers? came very near a solution but missed it at last, if we are to believe the dispatches published this morning. While the authorities at Washington were holding consultations over the fate of the captives, and the authorities at Salem were urging their demand for the recognition of the State's rights in the premises and the officers of Jackson county were asking to be allowed to deal with the murderers as the law directs, it appears that General Davis was quietly putting up a gallows of juniper logs on which to hang them. The time was set for the execution to take place. The Modocs were to swing off into eternity just as the sun went down on the evening of the 6th instant—yesterday. It is true the Indians had never been tried by any authority, civil or military. It is true they had not been condemned to death by any tribunal authorized to adjudge them worthy of death. It is true they could be tried with little trouble or expense by a drumhead court-martial for the murder of Canby and Thomas, or by the Circuit Court of Oregon for the murder of the settlers on Lost River and the Lake. But where was the necessity of a trial? Everybody knew they were guilty, and wherein was the wisdom of going through the tedious form of a proceeding before a civil or military court? Such was the reasoning which led to an order that these captives be killed without a legal establishment of their guilt. Such is the reasoning by which it can be shown, that in every case of murder where the proof is positive and conclusive, the first man who gets hold of the guilty party should proceed at once to take his life.

We confess to have felt while reading the dispatch, that there seemed to be no little danger of the United States Government rivaling Captain Jack in the singularity of its ideas of the proper way to treat an enemy who falls into its hands; and when the dispatch from Washington was at last received, forbidding this summary mode of disposing of the question, we could not but feel that the mail bag which arrived at Gen. Davis' headquarters just in the nick of time, with this order, had saved the nation from being made a party to a transaction that every right thinking citizen would be sorry for.

It was Solomon, if we rightly recollect, who said to his son: "John, beware of youthful indiscretions and a perturbed state of mind."

SALEM CORRESPONDENCE.

SALEM, Oregon, June 5, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The rain for the last few days has settled beyond a doubt that there will be an abundant crop this year, consequently times will be much better this fall if the grinding monopoly known as the Oregon and California Railroad will reduce the freight to living prices.

Next week, Tuesday, the

FARMERS' STATE CONVENTION

Will meet at the Legislative Hall in this city, and the Secretary informed me that there would be a large attendance, as a large number of new Farmers' Clubs had been organized who would send delegates, which, added to the number that attended last April, will make a respectable body in numbers, and, as they are men of ability, the assembly will compare favorably with, if not excel, the last Legislature. There will naturally arise a number of questions of great importance to this State for discussion, and the several committees appointed will meet next Monday to make out their various reports to be submitted, and it is expected that interesting and varied information will be promulgated. This farmers' movement carries more weight than a great many are disposed to believe.

Work is now being prosecuted with commendable energy on the State

CAPITAL BUILDING.

The foundation has been entirely excavated, and a large amount of rock, lime and sand is being hauled there, and the foundation commenced. It is the intention of the Commissioners, so Uncle Sam Allen whispered to me, to make a "powerful good showing with the $100,000 appropriated," with the aid of convict labor. When that building is completed, fronted by our new Court House, and flanked by the Willamette University, and Hon. E. N. Cooke's splendid private residence, this city will certainly be second to none in this State in regard to architectural beauty.

A WORK OF ART.

Messrs. Towl & Hawkins have for several months past been getting up a panorama of Oregon, and Colonel C. A. Reed, who has an excellent artist, is acquitting himself very creditably in his efforts to place some of the fine scenery of Oregon on canvas. There will be in all thirty five views, and the artist is now painting the twenty first one. Among the last will be several views of the lava bed, from photographs. These will prove to be of great interest, and one of them powerfully so—the spot where the gallant General Canby and the self sacrificing Thomas were assassinated. The paintings will give a better idea of the advantage that Captain Jack and his few desperate followers had, than could possibly be conceived without being on the field. And I hope that all who can will examine the paintings when they are exhibited in your city. Then those who have been inclined to think and have talked so much about the war being prolonged purposely, will see at a glance what the gallant officers and brave soldiers had to contend with. Messrs Towl & Hawkins deserves success for the energy they have displayed in their enterprise, as they have met difficulties on every hand.

There will not be much business before the Circuit Court, which commences next Monday, I am told, except the Whitley case, from Polk county. More anon.

SEWERAGE FOR THE CITY.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON STREETS AND PUBLIC PROPERTY [illegible] PLAN OF SEWERAGE FOR THIS CITY, [illegible]

To the Committee on Streets and Public Property—Gentlemen: In my preliminary report, after describing the principal drainage plans in operation in this country and in Europe with a view to comparison of their relative advantages, I recommend for this city the Brooklyn system in which but one set of sewers is used to convey the house sewage, and, where required the surface drainage.

Had you desired to commence at one time the entire sewerage of the city, or of any one district, I could not have recommended a better plan than that presented in October last by Mr W E Morris. It having been decided however to undertake during the present year only to relieve the river side streets from the hill water, it became necessary to change that plan as far as it would have affected the drainage of these streets. The plan which I submitted in March, including the alterations which I judged necessary for this purpose, having received your approval, I have completed the instrumental examinations necessary, and now present a map showing the general plan of sewerage for the city, with estimates of cost of the proposed work, and quantity of material required, full directions for laying the sewers and execution of all work pertaining to street and house drainage and conditions and specifications for contracts.

I have divided the city into districts, arranged with reference to the natural water sheds and direction of the flow, in such a manner that each district, having a separate outlet, may be sewered without reference to any other and the cost assessed in that district alone, if desired. On the general map these districts with their boundaries, main sewers, and tributary pipes, are shown. On the district maps, which will shortly be completed will be given in addition the diameters of all sewers and pipes, their inclinations, and at each crossing their depth below the grades of the streets, and the points at which man holes, lamp holes and basins should be placed. Other plans show details of the work, such as sections of sewers, and pipes, distribution of pipes for block and house drainage, etc. The annexed estimate sheets give the cost of each district, and of each street separately.

Central District,

Lying between Clay and D streets from Twelfth to the Willamette, covers an area of 336 acres. In my preliminary report, I proposed for this district a main sewer of brick, to commence at the corner of Columbia and Sixth, through Sixth and B streets to the river, which would take the drainage of the hill-side blocks west of Sixth street, and of the blocks between Alder and Pine, east of Sixth. Also main pipe drains in Stark, Morrison and Main streets, from Sixth to the river, and in each cross street, tributary pipes to these mains.

In the lower part of this district, between Sixth street and the river, the grades of streets have not sufficient inclination to allow the rain water to run off readily through the gutters, and inlets to admit the water into the pipes will be required at each alternate crossing. On the hill-side blocks, however, the inclination is generally more than 1 in 40, which is ample, if suitable gutters are provided, to carry off the rain water of storms much heavier than any recorded on this coast. On the respective maps I have shown the manner in which the gutters should be arranged so as to turn the water by the shortest course into the main sewers, preventing overflow of gutters and consequent washes in the streets by intercepting the rain water at short intervals, making each street carry off the rain falling on the row of blocks immediately above it, the area of which will in no case exceed 15 acres. To carry off a rain fall of two-thirds of an inch in an hour from this area, with the average inclination existing, will require a water way of 120 square inches, while that of the two gutters (12x12 each) will be 288 square inches, so that even in case of excessive rains, such as have never occurred here, the gutters will run less than one half full; and should one gutter become obstructed, the other will carry easily all of the water. From this, it is plain that the gutters can be made to carry, without inconvenience to passengers or injury to streets, the surface water of the entire city, except the flat portion near the river. It would therefore be a profitless expenditure to construct larger sewers, with the necessary basins, to do the work which can and should be performed by the street gutters, which must be built, with or without sewers. I propose, therefore, in this and other portions of the city where the inclination of the ground will admit, to make each street carry its surface water to the main sewers through the gutters; and this was also the design of Mr Morris, whose opinion, from his great professional ability, would be conclusive without this explanation, which I have given that all may be satisfied that the plan proposed is the cheapest and best, as it is necessary, in order that an enterprise of this magnitude should be successful that all parties interested, with a just appreciation of their rights and duties, should enter upon it in a fair and liberal spirit.

The sewerage of this district, if proportioned to receive the surface water at frequent intervals, would cost $174,058 35. On the plan which I propose, the cost will be $136,392 75, saving thereby $37,665 60 in this district alone, and proportionate sums in other districts.

Caruthers District,

Comprising the valley of Caruthers' Creek, contains 422 acres. The quantity of water which in time of rain passes through this valley, will require for its transit, a main sewer of 3½ feet diameter from South Sixth street to South Second, there enlarging to 4 feet, and continuing that size to the outlet. It should be located in the center of the ravine until reaching the McAdam road, thence along the foot of the hill to the river, near the lower end of Clay street, as shown on the map. In case water for the uses of the city should be obtained from any other source than the present before this district requires sewerage, this sewer should be carried east from the McAdam road, and be made to discharge into the river near the site now occupied by the engine house of the water company.

In each north and south street there will be 9 inch pipes leading into the main sewer for house drainage only, the surface water requiring no other provision than that afforded by the gutters. It will probably be some time before this district will require a main sewer. In the mean time pipes for house drainage may be laid to empty into the creek.

Clay Street District,

From the regularity of the grades, presents fewer difficulties to the work than either of the others. The expense also has been greatly reduced by the ditch opened along the foot of Robinson's Hill, which intercepts the greater part of the surface water from the high land back, so that a comparatively small sewer will carry off the remainder, together with the rain falling within the district, the area of which is 230 acres.

In my preliminary report, I recommended a main sewer in Clay street from Twelfth to the river, where its outlet will be so far from the engine house of the Water Works as to prevent all danger of contamination of the water, which might exist if located in either of the streets farther south, and where its construction would be much more costly, owing to the greater distance to its outlet, and the swampy ground, requiring expensive foundation courses.

In each cross street will be laid 9 inch pipes for house-drainage. The surface water will be carried through the gutters as in other parts of the city where equal inclination of the ground exists.

The streets in this locality have suffered more than in any other, from want of suitable provision for surface drainage, and it would be well to build the Clay street sewer, from Ninth street to the river, before the next rainy season, not only that the streets south may be improved as they require, but also to divert the water which during ordinary rains flows from this district into Front and First streets. The cost of this sewer will be, by my estimate, $10 700, and that of the sewer in Sixth and B streets, $23,421 60. If commenced at an early date, both can be completed during the present dry season and the work of drainage will then have been fairly commenced, and can be continued, in proportion, as necessity may require and means permit.

Tanner's Creek District,

Containing 1,750 acres comprises all blocks within the valley of the creek. To carry the rain water of this valley will require a sewer with a diameter of 6 feet from Morrison to D street, increasing to 7 feet from D to L, and to 7½ feet from L to its outlet. It should follow nearly the course of the stream from the intersection of Morrison and Sixteenth streets to the corner of North Eighth and I, thence through North Eighth to the river.

The house and street drainage will be effected as in other districts, according to the inclination of the ground. From I street north, inlets will be necessary where the grades of streets do not exceed 1 in 200.

When necessary to open streets across this creek, it will be best to build circular brick culverts, and cover them with an embankment graded to the level of the streets. These culverts will form parts of the future main sewer, and being permanent works, will compensate for the difference of cost of temporary wooden bridges.

River District,

Containing ninety acres lies north of B street, between Seventh and the Willamette. There will be main pipe drains in each alternate street, commencing at K and discharging into the river. Pipes in cross streets will not be required, as all blocks will be drained directly into the mains.

The grades in this section are so flat as to require inlets at frequent intervals to relieve the streets of rain water during the wet season.

Here as elsewhere near the river bank, the pipes will require to be flushed occasionally during high water, by turning into them water from the street hydrants. The inclination of the pipes, which is 1 in 150, will be sufficient to keep them clear at all times.

Cellars

Below the level of high water should be drained directly to the river. When this is not done, small pipes may be laid from the cellars into the sewers. These pipes should be provided at the upper end with a valve, to be kept closed except when desired to draw off the flood water in order that the sewage gases may not be discharged through the city.

House Drainage.

The use of sewage for manure is not at this time [illegible] the time near when agriculture [illegible] will require it. It is at this time necessary [illegible] its removal from the city as soon as [illegible].

Two systems of house drainage are at present [illegible]. [illegible] drained separately, [illegible] the nearest sewer.

At the other there [illegible] pipe [illegible] the sewer, [illegible] all pipes from water closets [illegible] lead.

I recommend the latter system, known as [illegible] back drainage, for the following reasons:

[illegible] house drains one half or one third, reaches [illegible] the point where the bulk of the sewage is generated—the back [illegible] and kitchens as also the expense and the [illegible] passing under the house, and affords easy access to house drains, reducing interruption to public traffic [illegible] for repairs.

A syphon trap, to prevent the escape of gases from the sewers, should be placed in the 6 inch main at a point between the entrance of the different house pipes. This arrangement is shown on the plan. To prevent the entrance into the 6 inch pipe of substances likely to obstruct it, it should be contracted below the area [illegible] to 4 inches.

Ventilation.

Fetid air is concentrated and rendered more noxious by confinement, and will force its way through the traps unless some outlet be provided. This may be done by connecting the gutter spouts with the 6 inch pipe below the trap so that the sewer gases will ascend [illegible] and disperse into the air. Until house connections are made the sewers may be ventilated through perforated caps placed over the man holes and lamp holes.

Sanitary Precautions

[illegible] of these [illegible] in daily [illegible] interior of blocks [illegible] generate [illegible] matter, which by decomposing will generate pestilent gases [illegible] prohibiting the [illegible] places of deposit for excremental matter. Water closets are cheaper and healthier [illegible] the local authorities would [illegible] the [illegible] to the first [illegible] used.

Private Sewers

In the want of main sewers private individuals may desire to lay independent pipes for the drainage of their own property. This should be discouraged, as such pipes would be in the way of future public sewers there [illegible] the general plan of sewerage.

Private sewers would cost their owners on an average at least four times as much as their share in the cost of a main sewer would amount to and it would be better where drainage is needed to execute the plan as adopted for that locality or such portion as might be then required that all concerned may contribute equally, and share its benefits.

I have treated the subject purely as a matter of engineering, seeking to attain the end desired with the greatest possible economy to the public generally, and have not allowed considerations of merely local importance to weigh against what I conceive to be the best plan of drainage for the city.

Before concluding, I would call your attention to the importance of observing carefully the directions given for the drainage of houses and blocks. Of all the sciences we cultivate that of health itself the most vital importance and experience is daily demonstrating that health depends upon cleanliness, in cities especially. In the plan which after careful consideration, I submit, no provision essential to health and comfort has been neglected. It rests with you to direct its execution, and enforce the conditions on which its success depends. This done, Portland will continue to be, as heretofore, unrivalled as a healthy city.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBT A HABERSHAM

SATURDAY MORNING JUNE 7 1873.

Don't be Deceived by the Two Bolters Movement

The indications are that bogus primaries called by the committee of two bolters, will not be very largely attended with the exception of persons notoriously connected with the faction that are supporting this bolting movement. Republicans who desire to stand by the regular organization, will not be likely to encourage this disorganizing scheme with their presence. It is not so near election yet as it usually has been when the regular primaries of the party have been called, and there is every reason to suppose that in due time proceedings will be had in the primaries by the legitimate committee. At its last meeting the committee adjourned to meet at the call of the Chairman. At that meeting, as well as the preceding one, these two recalcitrant members of the committee were present and took part in the proceedings. It would certainly become them much better, professing as they do to believe a party ticket ought to be run, to stand by the usages of their party, and especially to stand by the results of the action of the committee of which they are members, and in whose deliberations they themselves have taken an active part. If these two gentlemen had just waited a few days, till the usual time for issuing a call for the primaries, they would doubtless have had an opportunity to enforce their views in the full committee, and if those views are sound it is pretty safe to say they would commend themselves to the committee and control its action. By this means the probability of two tickets calling themselves Republican would have been avoided, and the integrity of the organization preserved intact.

We are very clearly of the opinion, that in the present "perturbed state of mind" in the Republican party in this city, the future unity and prosperity of the party would be best subserved by making no party nominations at this municipal election. It can not be expected that the members of the party will act together harmoniously hereafter, if one-half of them, or more than half, support the ticket nominated by the Committee of Twenty-seven, one-third of the other half, with their organ the Bulletin, follow off the "two-bolters" movement, and the remainder join in a regular Republican ticket, as it appears will probably be the case. The movement to have the election conducted without reference to party, contemplated that in political elections hereafter, all parties would be expected to act with their respective parties the same as heretofore, it was, therefore, calculated to do no injury to party organizations, either Democratic or Republican. But this organization of bolters with its meagre two out of nine committeemen, has evidentally a purpose to go further and overturn the party entirely. This bolt, in other words, means a bolt for all the time. At least so it looks, and this view of the matter is greatly strengthened by the well-known fact that the men who are giving the action of these bolting committeemen their main support—we mean the leaders of the Holladay-Mitchell faction of the Republican party—have been for some time in repeated and close consultation with some of the most active and influential Democrats of the city and State regarding the politics of the State. That an alliance between this faction and some of the leading Democrats has been thoroughly canvassed, and its terms settled, is now a notorious fact, and all that remains to be done to consummate the transfer of the whole power of the State into the hands of the few men of both sides who have engaged in these transactions, is for these people to be hoodwinked into falling into line. We have no doubt this bolting movement is intended by those who set it up to forward that scheme, but we do not believe the two committeemen who have taken the initiative have been let into the secret of the scheme. They have been deceived and deluded into this step, not perceiving the real purposes of those who have led them into it. They will see, when it is too late, that they have been used as a means of disrupting the Republican party. The thing for those Republicans to do, who have the harmony and perpetuity of the party at heart, is to give this two-bolters movement a wide berth.

M. de Lesseps, the great civil engineer, has in contemplation a plan for an uninterrupted system of railway from Calais to Calcutta. He has broached the subject to the Czar of Russia in a letter, from which we take the following extract:

> The distance from Calais to Orenburg (Russia) is already covered almost completely by rail. There remains, therefore, for Russia only the construction of the line from Orenburg to Samarcand, fifteen hundred miles. From Samarcand to Peshawar is eight hundred and fifty miles; from Peshawur to Calcutta already constructed—two thousand two hundred and fifty miles. Counting the way from Calais to Calcutta seventy five hundred miles, with a gap only one third of the distance, travelers from Europe can go from St. Petersburg to Calcutta in a week's time. The preliminary expenditure will be six hundred thousand dollars, and this will occupy two years.

It is believed that Russia has taken hold of the project, for it is announced that De Lesseps has organized a company to carry forward the stupendous project.

The New York Herald has been remarkably unfortunate in the matter of correspondents who have gone among the Latin races. First, O'Kelly is arrested and confined as a spy. Then Price falls into prison, and while the indignities heaped upon the latter are yet bemoaned by the Herald, comes the intelligence that one of its correspondents was captured by the Republicans of Spain, at Pena Cerrada, and that he escaped being shot only through the good offices of the British Minister. Lastly, we read that a Herald correspondent, who has been employed in Catalonia, has just been shot by the Spanish soldiery, near Barcelona. Verily, the Herald's war correspondents must "go forth taking their lives in their hands."

A Washington dispatch of May 23th, to the St. Louis Globe, says "The recent stories to the effect that Senator Mitchell of Oregon, was living under an assumed name, have caused considerable excitement among the citizens of Oregon now in Washington, as, if they should prove true, the effect will be to necessitate his retiring from the Senate. Congressman Wilson, of Oregon, wrote to Mr. Mitchell on the subject a few days ago, and a reply from him is now looked for with much anxiety."

They have a pleasant set of Aldermen in Cincinnati. Here is an extract from the Commercial's report of the proceedings of the City Council, May 19th. "Thomas J Stephens knocks down his ward colleague, Mr Johnson, for applying to him an opprobrious epithet. The council then adjourned."

The Fate of the Modocs

The all-absorbing question, what will be done with the Modoc murderers? came very near a solution but missed it at last, if we are to believe the dispatches published this morning. While the authorities at Washington were holding consultations over the fate of the captives, and the authorities at Salem were urging their demand for the recognition of the State's rights in the premises and the officers of Jackson county were asking to be allowed to deal with the murderers as the law directs, it appears that General Davis was quietly putting up a gallows of juniper logs on which to hang them. The time was set for the execution to take place. The Modocs were to swing off into eternity just as the sun went down on the evening of the 6th instant—yesterday. It is true the Indians had never been tried by any authority, civil or military. It is true they had not been condemned to death by any tribunal authorized to adjudge them worthy of death. It is true they could be tried with little trouble or expense by a drumhead court martial for the murder of Canby and Thomas, or by the Circuit Court of Oregon for the murder of the settlers on Lost River and the Lake. But where was the necessity of a trial? Everybody knew they were guilty, and wherein was the wisdom of going through the tedious form of a proceeding before a civil or military court? Such was the reasoning which led to an order that these captives be killed without a legal establishment of their guilt. Such is the reasoning by which it can be shown, that in every case of murder where the proof is positive and conclusive, the first man who gets hold of the guilty party should proceed at once to take his life.

We confess to have felt while reading the dispatch, that there seemed to be no little danger of the United States Government rivaling Captain Jack in the singularity of its ideas of the proper way to treat an enemy who falls into its hands; and when the dispatch from Washington was at last received, forbidding this summary mode of disposing of the question, we could not but feel that the mail bag which arrived at Gen Davis' headquarters just in the nick of time, with this order, had saved the nation from being made a party to a transaction that every right thinking citizen would be sorry for.

It was Solomon, if we rightly recollect, who said to his son "John, beware of youthful indiscretions and a perturbed state of mind."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The rain for the last few days has settled beyond a doubt that there will be an abundant crop this year, consequently times will be much better this fall if the grinding monopoly known as the Oregon and California Railroad will reduce the freight to living prices.

Next week, Tuesday, the

FARMERS' STATE CONVENTION

Will meet at the Legislative Hall in this city, and the Secretary informed me that there would be a large attendance, as a large number of new Farmers' Clubs had been organized who would send delegates, which, added to the number that attended last April, will make a respectable body in numbers, and, as they are men of ability, the assembly will compare favorably with, if not excel, the last Legislature. There will naturally arise a number of questions of great importance to this State for discussion, and the several committees appointed will meet next Monday to make out their various reports to be submitted, and it is expected that interesting and varied information will be promulgated. This farmers' movement carries more weight than a great many are disposed to believe.

Work is now being prosecuted with commendable energy on the State

CAPITAL BUILDING

The foundation has been entirely excavated, and a large amount of rock, lime and sand is being hauled there, and the foundation commenced. It is the intention of the Commissioners, so Uncle Sam Allen whispered to me, to make a "powerful good showing with the $100,000 appropriated," with the aid of convict labor. When that building is completed, fronted by our new Court House, and flanked by the Willamette University, and Hon E. N. Cooke's splendid private residence, this city will certainly be second to none in this State in regard to architectural beauty.

A WORK OF ART

Messrs. Towl & Hawkins have for several months past been getting up a panorama of Oregon, and Colonel C. A. Reed, who has an excellent artist, is acquitting himself very creditably in his efforts to place some of the fine scenery of Oregon on canvas. There will be in all thirty five views, and the artist is now painting the twenty first one. Among the last will be several views of the lava bed, from photographs. These will prove to be of great interest, and one of them powerfully so—the spot where the gallant General Canby and the self sacrificing Thomas were assassinated. The paintings will give a better idea of the advantage that Captain Jack and his few desperate followers had, than could possibly be conceived without being on the field. And I hope that all who can will examine the paintings when they are exhibited in your city. Then those who have been inclined to think and have talked so much about the war being prolonged purposely, will see at a glance what the gallant officers and brave soldiers had to contend with. Messrs Towl & Hawkins deserve success for the energy they have displayed in their enterprise, as they have met difficulties on every hand.

There will not be much business before the Circuit Court, which commences next Monday, I am told, except the Whitley case, from Polk county. More anon.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

The Colonist says: A gentleman has arrived at Nanaimo from London to examine the works with a view to making additions to the machinery and other working stock.

Times are represented as dull in the upper country. Many of the farmers have the whole of last year's wheat on hand and Victoria is importing chicken feed.

Mr M Hart, foreman of the Tigers, who injured one of his legs at the Mountaineer House fire, several months since, has so far recovered as to be able to walk about with the aid of a cane.

In Okanagon there is a late spring plenty of rain, crops up and looking splendid, berry bushes laden with blossoms, creeks high. On Mission Creek considerable land is inundated, and is very detrimental to farmers there.

W Sampson left Lillooet on the 22d of May to make a preliminary survey around the lakes for the Howe Sound trail. Work on the upper end of the trail will be commenced in a few days. Crops promise to yield largely. Farmers have a large part of last year's crop on hand, and it was only in anticipation of the railway being commenced that they were induced to put in crops the present year.

Indian Superintendent Wright of Montana is in receipt of late official intelligence from Fort Peck, stating that Sitting Bull, the only prominent Teton Sioux Chief who has heretofore steadfastly refused to accept the terms of the peace policy, has very recently sent in word that, upon the arrival of Agent Simmons, he would gather together his band and join the main portion of the tribe north of the Missouri, and hereafter abide quietly and peaceably within the stipulated reservation limits.

A prominent official of Montana Territory, writing to the President of the N P R R, says: "Montana is the best place for cattle that I know of. Beef can be raised her for three cents a pound. Phillip Thorp of Gall tin has three year old steers that average 1,500 pounds. My own weight although but a short time in the country, is close on to 300 pounds."

A bill has been introduced in the New York legislature for a railway tunnel under the Hudson River between New York and Jersey City. Inquires the Herald: "Why not? The work could probably be done for a hundred millions allowing a margin of fifty millions for leakages and perquisites."

The Spanish Republicans of Madrid recently gave a banquet in honor of Mr Bradlaugh, bearer of resolutions of congratulation from England to the Spanish Republic.

Leading members of the Iowa bar have requested the President to promote Justice Miller to the Chief Justiceship.

NEW TO-DAY.

SEWERAGE FOR THE CITY

REPORT TO COMMITTEE ON STREETS AND PUBLIC PROPERTY ON A PLAN OF SEWERAGE FOR THIS CITY BY THE CITY ENGINEER.

To the Committee on Streets and Public Property—Gentlemen: In my preliminary report, after describing the principal drainage plans in operation in this country and in Europe, with a view to comparison of their relative advantages, I recommend for this city the Brooklyn system, in which but one set of sewers is used to convey the house sewage and where required the surface drainage.

Had you desired to commence at one time the entire sewerage of the city, or of any one district, I could not have recommended a better plan than that presented in October last by Mr. W. E. Morris. It having been decided however to undertake during the present year only to relieve the river side streets from the hill water, it became necessary to change that plan so far as it would have affected the drainage of these streets. This plan which I submitted in March, including the alterations which I judged necessary for this purpose having received your approval, I have completed the instrumental examinations necessary and now present a map showing the general plan of sewerage for the city, with estimates of cost of the proposed work, and quantity of material required, full directions for laying the sewers and execution of all work pertaining to street and house drainage, and conditions and specifications for contracts.

I have divided the city into districts, arranged with reference to the natural water sheds and direction of the flow in such a manner that each district having a separate outlet, may be sewered without reference to any other and the cost assessed in that district alone if desired. On the general map these districts with their boundaries main sewers and tributary pipes, are shown. On the district maps, which will shortly be completed will be given in addition the diameters of all sewers and pipes, their inclinations and at each crossing their depth below the grades of the streets and the points at which man holes lamp holes and basins should be placed. Other plans show details of the work, such as sections of sewers, and pipes, distribution of pipes for block and house drainage, etc. The annexed estimate sheets give the cost of each district, and of each street separately.

Central District,

Lying between Clay and D streets from Twelfth to the Willamette, covers an area of 330 acres. In my preliminary report, I proposed for this district a main sewer of brick, to commence at the corner of Columbia and Sixth through Sixth and B streets to the river, which would take the drainage of the hill-side blocks west of Sixth street and of the blocks between Alder and Pine, east of Sixth. Also main pipe drains in Stark, Morrison and Main streets, from Sixth to the river, and in each cross street, tributary pipes to these mains.

In the lower part of this district, between Sixth street and the river, the grades of streets have not sufficient inclination to allow the rain water to run off readily through the gutters, and inlets to admit the water into the pipes will be required at each alternate crossing. On the hill side blocks, however, the inclination is generally more than 1 in 40, which is ample, if suitable gutters are provided, to carry off the rain water of storms much heavier than any recorded on this coast. On the respective maps I have shown the manner in which the gutters should be arranged so as to turn the water by the shortest course into the main sewers, preventing overflow of gutters and consequent washes in the streets by intercepting the rain water at short intervals, making each street carry off the rain falling on the row of blocks immediately above it, the area of which will in no case exceed 15 acres. To carry off a rain fall of two thirds of an inch in an hour from this area, with the average inclination existing, will require a water way of 120 square inches, while that of the two gutters (12x12 each) will be 288 square inches, so that even in case of excessive rains, such as have never occurred here, the gutters will run less than one half full; and should one gutter become obstructed, the other will carry easily all of the water. From this, it is plain that the gutters can be made to carry, without inconvenience to passengers or injury to streets, the surface water of the entire city, except the flat portion near the river. It would therefore be a profitless expenditure to construct larger sewers with the necessary basins, to do the work which can and should be performed by the street gutters, which must be built, with or without sewers. I propose, therefore, in this and other portions of the city where the inclination of the ground will admit, to make each street carry its surface water to the main sewers through the gutters; and this was also the design of Mr Morris whose opinion, from his great professional ability, would be conclusive without this explanation, which I have given that all may be satisfied that the plan proposed is the cheapest and best, as it is necessary in order that an enterprise of this magnitude should be successful that all parties interested, with a just appreciation of their rights and duties, should enter upon it in a fair and liberal spirit.

The sewerage of this district, if proportioned to receive the surface water at frequent intervals, would cost $174,058 35. On the plan which I propose, the cost will be $136,392 75, saving thereby $37,665 60 in this district alone, and proportionate sums in other districts.

Caruthers District,

Comprising the valley of Caruthers' Creek, contains 422 acres. The quantity of water which in time of rain passes through this valley, will require for its transit a main sewer of 8½ feet diameter from South Sixth street to South Second, there enlarging to 4 feet, and continuing that size to the outlet. It should be located in the center of the ravine until reaching the McAdam road, thence along the foot of the hill to the river, near the lower end of Clay street, as shown on the map. In case water for the uses of the city should be obtained from any other source than the present before this district requires sewerage, this sewer should be carried east from the McAdam road, and be made to discharge into the river near the site now occupied by the engine house of the water company.

In each north and south street there will be 9 inch pipes leading into the main sewer for house drainage only, the surface water requiring no other provision than that afforded by the gutters. It will probably be some time before this district will require a main sewer. In the mean time pipes for house drainage may be laid to empty into the creek.

Clay Street District,

From the regularity of the grades, presents fewer difficulties to the work than either of the others. The expense also has been greatly reduced by the ditch opened along the foot of Robinson's Hill, which intercepts the greater part of the surface water from the high land back so that a comparatively small sewer will carry off the remainder, together with the rain falling within the district, the area of which is 230 acres.

In my preliminary report, I recommended a main sewer in Clay street from Twelfth to the river, where its outlet will be so far from the engine house of the Water Works as to prevent all danger of contamination of the water, which might exist if located in either of the streets farther south and where its construction would be much more costly, owing to the greater distance to its outlet, and the swampy ground, requiring expensive foundation courses.

In each cross street will be laid 9 inch pipes for house-drainage. The surface water will be carried through the gutters as in other parts of the city where equal inclination of the ground exists.

The streets in this locality have suffered more than in any other, from want of suitable provision for surface drainage, and it would be well to build the Clay street sewer, from Ninth street to the river, before the next rainy season, not only that the streets south may be improved as they require, but also to divert the water which during ordinary rains flows from this district into Front and First streets. The cost of this sewer will be, by my estimate, $10,700 and that of the sewer in Sixth and B streets, $21,421 60. If commenced at an early date, both can be completed during the present dry season and the work of drainage will then have been fairly commenced and can be continued in proportion, as necessity may require and means permit.

Tanner's Creek District,

Containing 1,750 acres comprises all blocks within the valley of the creek. To carry the rain water of this valley will require a sewer with a diameter of 6 feet from Morrison to D street, increasing to 7 feet from D to L and to 7½ feet from L to its outlet. It should follow nearly the course of the stream from the intersection of Morrison and Sixteenth streets to the corner of North Eighth and I, thence through North Eighth to the river.

The house and street drainage will be effected as in other districts according to the inclination of the ground. From I street north, inlets will be necessary where the grades of streets do not exceed 1 in 200.

When necessary to open streets across this creek it will be best to build circular brick culverts, and cover them with an embankment graded to the level of the streets. These culverts will form parts of the future main sewer and being permanent works, will compensate for the difference of cost of temporary wooden bridges.

River District,

Containing ninety acres lies north of D street between Seventh and the Willamette. There will be main pipe drains in each alternate street commencing at E and discharging into the river. Pipes in cross streets will not be required as all blocks will be drained directly into the mains.

The grades in this section are so flat as to require inlets at frequent intervals to relieve the streets of rain water during the wet season.

Here as elsewhere near the river bank the pipes will require to be flushed occasionally during high water, by turning into them water from the street hydrants. The inclination of the pipes which is 1 in 150, will be sufficient to keep them clear at all times.

Cellars

Below the level of high water should be drained directly into the river. When this cannot be done small pipes may be laid from the cellars into the sewers. These pipes should be provided at the upper end with stop cocks to be kept closed except when desired to draw off the flood water in order that the sewage gases may not be disseminated through the city.

House Drainage

The use of sewage for manure is not at this time, or tempted at and it will be some time near when agriculture ... will require it. It is at this time necessary to provide ... from the city as ... as ... possible.

Two systems of house drainage are at present in use.

In one each house is drained separately, by a pipe laid under the ... of the nearest sewer.

At the other there is only ... of ... this diameter from each block to the sewer. Into this all pipes from water closets, sinks, etc., lead.

I recommend the latter system known as combined back drainage for the following reasons:

It is ... no house drains to ... and ... third reaches more readily the point where the bulk of the sewage is generated—the back rooms and kitchens ... the expense ... under main houses and affords easy access to house drains, reducing interruption to public traffic in opening for repairs.

A syphon trap, to prevent the escape of gases from the sewers, should be placed in the 6 inch main at a point ... the entrance of the different house pipes. This arrangement is shown on the plan. To prevent the entrance into the 6 inch pipe of substances likely to obstruct it it should be contracted below the area ... to 4 inches.

Ventilation

Fetid air is concentrated and rendered most noxious by confinement, and will find its way through the traps unless ample outlet be provided. This may be done by connecting the gutter spouts with the 6 inch pipe below the trap so that the sewer gases will ascend to the roof and disperse into the air. Until house connections are made the sewers may be ventilated through perforated caps placed over the man holes and lamp holes.

Sanitary Precautions

The first important ... is to remove daily from the ... and interior of blocks all refuse ... gets ... matter which by its ... will generate ... and in prohibiting the ... to be used as places of deposit for excremental matter. Water closets are cheaper and healthier ... and the local authorities would ... the latter altogether where the ... can be used.

Private Sewers

In the want of main sewers private individuals may ... their independent pipes for the drainage of their own property. This should be discouraged as such pipes will be in the way of future public sewers there by deranging the general plan of sewerage.

Private sewers would cost their owners on an average at least four times as much as their share in the cost of a main sewer would amount to and it would be better where drainage is needed to execute the plan as adopted for that locality or such portion as might be then required that all concerned may contribute equally, and share its benefits.

I have treated the subject purely as a matter of engineering, seeking to attain the end desired with the greatest possible economy to the public generally, and have not allowed considerations of merely local importance to weigh against what I conceive to be the best plan of drainage for the city.

Before concluding I would call your attention to the importance of observing carefully the directions given for the drainage of houses and blocks. Of all the sciences we cultivate that of health is of the most vital importance and experience is daily demonstrating that health depends upon cleanliness, in cities especially. In the plan which after careful consideration, I submit no provision essential to health and comfort has been neglected. It rests with you to direct its execution, and enforce the conditions on which its success depends. This done Portland will continue to be, as heretofore, unrivalled as a healthy city.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBT A HABERSHAM

U. S. Marshal's Sale.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED OUT of the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of Oregon, to me directed, in favor of Einstein Bros & Co., of San Francisco, California, and against J. S. Kast and M. Richards, for the sum of Two Thousand Five Hundred and Seventy-two 84 100 Dollars ($2,572 84) and interest and costs, I did, on the 5th day of June, 1873, levy the same upon all of said M. Richards' interest in and to the following described real property to-wit: the South half (S½) of Lot numbered Three (3) in Block numbered One Hundred and Forty-six (146) in the City of Portland in said District. Now therefore, by virtue of said Execution, on Monday, the 7th day of July, 1873 at the hour of two o'clock P. M. of said day, at the Court House door in said City of Portland, I will sell all of the right, title and interest of said M. Richards in and to the above described property, at Public Auction, to the highest bidder therefor, for cash in hand, to satisfy said Execution and interest, costs and accruing costs.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES!

TO-NIGHT, JUNE 7, 1873.

A DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION FOR THE NOMInation of candidates to be voted for at the municipal election to be held in this city June 16, 1873, is hereby called to assemble at Philharmonic Hall June 9, 1873, at 2 o'clock P. M. The ratio of representation fixed is one delegate for every fifteen votes cast for the last Democratic candidate for Mayor and one for every fraction of more than half that number.

Under this rule the First Ward is entitled to ten delegates, the Second Ward to thirteen delegates, and the Third Ward to fourteen delegates.

It is recommended that primaries for the election of delegates to the Convention, the selection of Councilmen and Ward Committees be held under the supervision of the Ward Committees on Saturday, June 7, 1873, TO NIGHT, at the following places:

First Ward—Next to Gleason's Cosmopolitan Hotel. Building Committee—J. S. Tucker, H. L. Herman and Alex Campbell. Second Ward—Godard's Stable office, corner Morrison and Second streets. Committee—Frank Gatens, S. Pennoyer and John Catlin. Third Ward—No. 1 Stable office. Committee—R. J. Ladd, Jas. Wilson and J. Joseph Simon. Polls to be kept open from 6 to 8 o'clock P. M.

The Ward Committees of three persons appointed by them are inspectors of the election and are requested to take care that none but Democrats vote.

CITY.

Base Ball Experience.—Our regular corre[illegible] at Hillsboro has been engaging in the [illegible] of game. From his own statement of [illegible] he is better adapted to drive a quill than [illegible] the bat. Here is his experience briefly [illegible]: "The Hillsboro Base Ball Club had [illegible] they call a 'huge time' a few days since. [illegible] to take a hand, and was placed on [illegible] the first base. I was to catch the [illegible] the man running. All went well [illegible], when 'whiz!' and here came the ball. I threw up my hands, but too late. The [illegible] me plump in the left eye, causing me to [illegible] down, as though I was very tired. [illegible] was raised, 'Second base!' I [illegible] with all my might to the gentleman [illegible] that honorable position, who missed [illegible] the ball taking him on the nose, driving [illegible] back and spreading it out all [illegible] his countenance, causing him to lie [illegible]. I immediately ran up and took a look at [illegible], and my first opinion was that he would not [illegible] corpse or a respectable member of [illegible]; and furthermore, that no one would [illegible] unless they wanted to die and [illegible] the odium of committing suicide. I [illegible] be Superintendent of Common Schools [illegible] of a base ball club."

Royal Arch Chapter.—The Grand Royal Arch Chapter for Oregon and Washington [illegible] commenced yesterday morning at Ma[illegible] Temple, at 10 o'clock. Grand High Priest [illegible] Bayley presided, who delivered the annual [illegible]. Several incidental committees were ap[illegible] and the following officers were elected: [illegible] Bayley, M. E. G. H. P.; J. B. Lee, D. G. [illegible]; J. B. Congle, G. K.; D. G. Clarke, G. S.; [illegible], G. C. H.; George Humphrey, G. P. [illegible], G. R. C.; Mart. V. Brown, [illegible] V.; A. G. Walling, G. M. 2d V.; B. W. [illegible], G. M. 1st V. The Chapter will convene [illegible] and continue in session until [illegible].

[illegible] San Francisco Post says: [illegible], of Astoria, Oregon, sailed on [illegible], taking with him a fine bull calf, [illegible] for which he paid Col. Peter Saxe [illegible]. The Colonel imported the bull from Ken[illegible] by Capt. H. S. Patterson, [illegible] breeders of short horns in the [illegible] county of Harrison. From the [illegible], we judge he will revo[illegible] of the "natives" of [illegible]. The Colonel has a few more left of [illegible]. Gen. Adair arrived on the last [illegible].

Departed.—The steamer Ajax, [illegible] for San Francisco, car[illegible] the following passengers: Mrs John F [illegible], M Smith, Mrs J E [illegible] Hewitt and wife, Mrs B Gold[illegible], D Horton, J S Hunt, Mrs [illegible], H D Sanborn, C [illegible], B F Ansmus, H M [illegible], J S Dormer.

[illegible] Sale To-day of Valuable Real [illegible] sale to-day, at 2 o'clock [illegible] door, of the valuable [illegible] in this city and in East Portland, be[illegible] of W. E. Cooper, de[illegible], auctioneer. The [illegible] at the sale an abstract of [illegible] to be offered.

[illegible].—Work on the ice factory in this [illegible] on account of the [illegible] of [illegible] which [illegible] will bring the re[illegible] it is [illegible].

"[illegible] May."—[illegible] the [illegible] of a little [illegible] which was built [illegible] days ago. [illegible] May was [illegible] with special ref[illegible] the [illegible] the craft is for [illegible].

[illegible].—Next Monday morning the [illegible] for the June [illegible] 137 law [illegible] 17 criminal cases. [illegible] have been drawn as jurors are re[illegible] at the opening of the court [illegible] morning.

[illegible] Monday.—The little steamer Oneatta [illegible] of Main street undergoing [illegible]. The cabin is being refitted, re[illegible] machinery overhauled. Every[illegible] ready for the [illegible] to or [illegible] trips by next Monday morning.

[illegible].—The barkentine Melancthon was [illegible] by the Emma Hayward some [illegible] the mouth of the Walla [illegible]. She [illegible] tow of the Fery Ball, and reached this [illegible] last night. The Melancthon came from [illegible] with a large miscellaneous cargo.

Burial.—The remains of the late Mrs. [illegible] of Lewiston, will be brought to this city [illegible] Hayward this evening. The burial [illegible] at the Jewish cemetery. Deceased [illegible] highly respected by many [illegible] vicinity.

[illegible] Cattle.—One hundred and thirty-five [illegible] cattle were taken yesterday on the Emma [illegible] from the Cowlitz to Kalama. At the [illegible] of the Wallamet, the Fanile Troup was [illegible] the mails and passengers [illegible].

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Cool last night.

Politics animated.

Two picnics to-day.

River on a stand still.

On the wane—the moon.

No sailing vessels in port.

Central Market—Fabre—good coffee.

Quinn has no objection to selling his bears.

Blackberries and currants will soon be ripe.

Oriflamme will sail to-day from San Francisco.

Streets being opened north from the end of B street.

Charley May has given up his privileges on the railroads.

Farmers are bringing in immense quantities of strawberries.

Postal cards will be a delicate and delightful way of dunning.

Most of the postal cards have been used for advertising purposes.

Strawberries down to less than twenty cents per pound on and after to-day.

Pleasant weather is desired for this day particularly—so say picnickers.

Woman's glory is in her hair, but it is a good plan to tie it up when cooking.

The free concert takes well, even if the auditors have to stand on a street corner.

We will have more Salemites with us now. Special train hereafter, you know.

Sixteen horses were seen yesterday morning on block 218 enjoying the morning air.

Levy Bros. will soon have their machine ready for bottling ginger, ale and sarsaparilla.

You can use a postage stamp twice. The first time it will cost three cents, the second time fifty dollars.

BASE BALL.

Games at Salem, Oregon City and in town to-day.

At Williamsburg, New York, May 26th, Atlantic three runs, all in one inning; Athletic four runs in two innings—nine innings played.

Will. Strong will play in Tom. Brotherton's place to-day, for the Pacifics, and A. S. Whiting will be the first base in the first nine for the Pioneers.

The Rustler B. B. Club at Oregon City, have disbanded. The Enterprise says: "The Clackamas Club having re-organized, there was no longer any need for the Rustlers."

The all absorbing topic among base ballists and the admirers of the noble game, is the match to-day between the Pioneers and Pacifics, on the grounds west of the Academy, at 1:30 P. M. Each club will present a strong nine, and a game of an exciting character may be anticipated. For the accommodation of ladies seats will be provided. We hope there will be no wrangling between the players, and that everything may prove satisfactory.

It will make no change in the present schedule of other trains.

AMUSEMENTS.

The ice cream festival and ball given last night at Philharmonic Hall was a very successful and pleasurable affair and well attended.

Unless the weather to-morrow should prove very inclement, a grand picnic and concert will be given at the East Portland Park under the auspices of the Tyrolian Warblers.

PICNICS.

This morning at 8:30, the Annie Stewart will start with the Presbyterian Sunday School—passing through the Locks at Oregon City to the grove above Canemah. A good time and safe return to all.

The pupils and teachers connected with the Portland Academy and Female Seminary, and a number of invited guests, will have an excursion to the Cascades to-day. The steamer Oneonta will leave her wharf this morning at 8 o'clock sharp, and return again in the evening.

ANTI-CHINESE ALLIANCE.

At a public meeting of the citizens of East Portland, held at the Council Chamber Thursday evening, to organize an Anti-Chinese Alliance, Mr. F. R. Neall was elected President, and J. A. Newell Secretary.

The following pledge was circulated and received fifty-one signatures:

"We, the undersigned, agree to organize for the prevention of Chinese immigration, and to discountenance the employment of Chinamen as laborers."

A committee of seven persons were appointed from among the signers of the pledge on permanent organization, with instructions to report at an adjourned meeting.

After remarks by Messrs. Volks, Turnbull, Van Cleave, Cason, Saunders, Collins and others, the meeting adjourned until next Wednesday evening, June 11th, at 8 o'clock, when the report of the Committee on Permanent Organization will be submitted.

FASHIONABLE NOTES.

The rage for filagree ornaments of oxidyzed silver is increasing. The favorite model is a square "five barred" gate, clasped in the middle and adorned with sphynx or other antique heads and charms.

Paniers have been abolished; the enormous tournures have disappeared. Already dresses which are puffed up in huge bunches look old, and the straight redingote—simple, distinguished—carries everything before it.

Ready-made clothing should comprise, in addition to underclothing, skirts, skirt waists, loose fitting suits and costumes of linen, cloth, waterproof and alpaca and half-fitting jackets.

White evening dresses are of India mulle, fine suisse, or French book muslin beautifully embroidered and arranged to be worn with or without an underdress of silk. The tunic is not unfrequently a mass of embroidery and lace.

Very pretty summer ball dresses are made by covering a somewhat passe evening silk with plaitings of crepe lisse and ornamented with flowers—heartsease, carnations and forget-me-nots. Small flowers, natural in color and size, have quite taken the place of the enlarged and fancifully-colored specimens seen last winter.

The prettiest and simplest style is the Princess dress, cut without lining, a plait or gathering on the skirt at the back, the seams marked with fine needlework insertion. A sash of twilled silk three yards long, half a yard wide, the ends bordered with fringe, is draped over, either as sash or scarf.

The muslin riding-hats have round soft cap-crowns, rather higher than broad, surrounded with a deep indented brim, covered with straight single plaitings of muslin, exactly like the kilt plaitings of skirts.

Broad-brimmed riding-hats have appeared in straw and muslin, under the name of "country" and "garden" hats. Very handsome "country" hats are of Leghorn, with slightly oval crowns and broad brims raised at the sides over a spray of flowers.

Twilled linen and linen coutille are the novelties in linen dress materials, and they are as indestructible as if they were to be used for laborers—what are sometimes called in England, "smoke frocks." They are dull canvas, buff in color, and the new plain dark blue linen is used for trimming.

A lady, whose husband has been wealthy, who lived abroad for years, who flourished at the State balls of the Empress Eugenie, was supposed to possess a fortune in her diamonds. All her friends knew that they were furnished by the Court Jeweler, and matched, in appearance, magnificent jewels possessed by the Empress. To-day her husband is bankrupt, and it turns out that her diamonds are paste, though they have passed current in the best society for years.

Monsignor Mermillod, the archbishop recently expelled from Switzerland, has settled at Ferney, France, in the former residence of Mme Denis, the celebrated niece of Voltaire. He is said to have written to the Pope this comment on his fate and present places of labor: "Your Holiness sent me to Calvin; Calvin sent me to Voltaire; I hope to inter them both."

If you want the woven wire bed, parlor and bedroom suits, the best spring and pure hair mattresses, go to Hurgren & Shindler.

"I say, Tom, that is a nobby suit you have on! I declare I've been trying to get something that will fit me to a dot, and that I can depend on to wear well. Where did you buy them?" "I was passing along First street, last week, and as I turned the corner of Washington street I noticed some fine cloths and furnishing goods. The attraction was so great that I stepped inside, and after selecting the materials, I ordered what may be termed an elegant fitting suit. The place is Fishel & Roberts."

The public mind has been somewhat agitated with the Modoc war, an occasional marine or railway disaster, and the dull times, and the prospect of buying clothing at a figure not large enough to clean a man to the bedrock. The place has been found where you can buy men and boy's clothing, or gentlemen's furnishing goods, at the very lowest prices. It is at Beck & Waldman's, corner of Front and Washington street, where a full assortment of men and boys' clothing, in the latest styles, can be selected from.

Mr. John Kennedy, formerly of the Philadelphia Shoe Store, is now at the San Francisco Shoe Store with Fleischner & Crone, where he will be pleased to wait upon his friends and customers, with one of the largest and finest stocks of boots and shoes on the coast. He will also continue to take measures for ladies' custom-made shoes.

"Tried and True."—What words of trust and confidence are these! It is what many a poor sufferer can say of Helmbold's Buchu. It is the only reliable medicine of those terrible diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Beware of counterfeits. The genuine has the private proprietary stamp of H. T. Helmbold. Full directions with each bottle. John F. Henry, New York, Sole Agent.

The pen of enterprise creates; the weak imitator tries to copy him. Does any sensible man suppose that the legions of "Buchus," so-called, that infest the drug stores, possess the real merit of Dr. Helmbold's Genuine Extract? Any sufferer from Kidney Complaint, Dropsy, Diabetes, or other urinary diseases, in male or female, will detect the difference at once by the results. Helmbold's cures; the others fail. The genuine bears Dr. Helmbold's signature. John F. Henry, New York, Sole Agent.

It is no wonder that invalids lose faith in all specifics when so many worthless medicines are advertised for the cure of various diseases, but which, when tried, are "found wanting." We have yet to learn, however, of the first failure of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry to cure coughs, colds and pulmonary disease.

Johnson's Anodyne Liniment may be used to advantage where any Liniment is desirable. In cases of severe cramps and pains in the stomach it is undoubtedly the best article that can be used internally.

If you want pure, fine liquors of any kind, go to E. D. Tyne's, northwest corner of Oak and First streets, agent for the sale of Jessie Moore & Co.'s fine Old Bourbon and Rye Whiskies of Louisville, Ky.

Habitual constipation leads to the following results: Inflammation of the kidneys, sick and nervous headache, billiousness, dyspepsia, indigestion, piles, loss of appetite and strength; all of which may be avoided by being regular in your habits, and taking, say one of Parsons' Purgative Pills nightly for four or six weeks.

TO THE TAX-PAYERS OF THE CITY OF PORTLAND.

The Portland Water Company take this method of defining their position on the purchase of their works by the city of Portland:

On the 25th day of April, 1872, this company received a communication from Messrs. W. S. Ladd, J. B. Congle, C. H. Lewis and S. G. Reed, sub committee on water supply, appointed by the Mayor, asking the question:

"Will you dispose of your works to the city of Portland? and if so, you will state price, terms, etc."

Our answer was, we would sell; and the price, three hundred thousand dollars, to be paid as specified.

Again, the Committee on Fire and Water called on us at our office, saying they came in accordance with a resolution passed by the Common Council, on the 5th of February, to confer with us as to the purchase of our works by the city, to ascertain the price, and report to the Council at their earliest convenience. This company named the same price, viz: $300,000, that had been named to the former committee, two hundred and forty thousand dollars coin, and the city to assume the payment of sixty thousand dollars currency bonds, bearing seven per cent. interest, payable in July, 1880.

The committee made their report to the Common Council on the evening of February 18, 1873, from which report we copy the latter portion, viz:

We have been permitted to examine the income of the Water Company for the years 1870, 1871 and 1872, from rents of water, and from them we learn that the receipts would pay the interest on the bonds, the cost of operating the works, and have a considerable surplus, while the rents could be lowered one fourth the present rates, and still pay rents sufficient to pay interest and cost of operating, thus giving to our citizens cheaper water, which is a matter greatly to be desired.

The increase of population in the city will increase the rents, and cheaper rates will increase the takers, without corresponding increase in the cost of operating; and in the no distant future your Committee believe that the rates can be reduced to one-half the present rates, and still leave a sufficient revenue to pay interest on the bonds and cost of operating, while a small sum can be annually accumulating to form a sinking fund for the redemption of the bonds.

Under the provisions of our charter nothing can be done in the way of incurring an indebtedness sufficient to purchase or build Water Works by the city until the proposition is submitted to the people at a general election, and by them approved.

Your Committee therefore recommend that the proposition of the Portland Water Company for the sale of their Works, rights, &c., &c., be submitted to the people at the coming June election, as provided by charter, for their approval or rejection.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) J. B. CONGLE,
J. C. MORELAND,
Committee on Fire and Water.

The Portland Water Company would respectfully state to the tax-payers the fact, that they have not urged the city to purchase our works. We have simply answered in good faith communications from committees appointed by the Mayor and Common Council of this city, as we supposed in good faith on the part of the city, and as a continuance of our willingness to give to the tax payers and the public any information they may desire, in order that they may vote intelligently at the coming June election for or against the purchase of our works by the city, we submit the following abstract from our books for two years, with the probable rates for one year:

ABSTRACT—Water Rates of the Portland Water Company from July 1, 1871, to July 1, 1872.

From City, County, Gas Company and Schools.	2,080 00
From building purposes, street sprinkling etc.	1,480 00
Total	$4[illegible],965 43

From the foregoing abstracts we arrive at the following deductions, viz:

	Water.	Increase.
1872—Rates as per books	$42,774 96
1873—Rates as per books (May and June estimated)	45,965 43	3,190 47
1874—Same ratio of increase	50,000 00	4,034 57
Estimated rates for one year, ending June 30, 1874		50,000 00
Interest on $240,000 bonds at 8 per cent.	19,200 00
Interest on $60,000 currency bonds, bearing 7 per cent, coin.	3,780 00
Expenses, allowing $1,000 more than present year	8,000 00	30,980 00
Surplus after paying interest and expenses		19,020 00
Rates for 1874, $50,000—25 per cent. less than present rates		12,500 00
Surplus after reduction of rates		$6,480 00

The city can run the works, reduce the rates 25 per cent., and leave a balance in favor of the city of six thousand, five hundred and twenty dollars; or, in other words, consumers that now pay $2 per month, can be supplied for $1 50 per month, and others in proportion; and still the city will receive a revenue without taxing the people for a water supply.

Any further information desired in relation to the Company's works will be freely given on application at their office.

Respectfully,
THE PORTLAND WATER COMPANY.
H. D. GREEN, President.

COLEMAN'S Dr. J. S. Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining EUCALYPTUS all the valuable medicinal qualities of the Eucalyptus, which is cultivated in nearly every California garden for its medicinal utility, having become the household remedy for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, BLADDER and URINARY CANAL, and SEMINAL WEAKNESS. It seems to have a direct affinity for the GENITO URINARY ORGANS and their surroundings, and cures them by its alterative, healing and balsamic properties more effectually than any other known remedy.

It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and serous membranes, such as BRONCHITIS, HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY, DYSPEPSIA, LEUCORRHEA, etc.

This preparation is the result of Dr. Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U. S. Marine Hospital in San Francisco, in 1871 and 1872, where he had unusual facilities for testing the various methods of preparing the remedy, and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the promised results, and hundreds of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office, 405 Kearney street, San Francisco.

COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS is a powerful, yet harmless, febrifuge, and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys, and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions, while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and arsenical remedies for those diseases are entirely avoided.

FOR PHYSICIANS, Coleman's Fluid Extract of Eucalyptus in 1 lb bottles.

Beware of imitations, and take none but COLEMAN'S. For sale everywhere, and by Hodge, Calef & Co., Wholesale Druggists, Portland, Sole Agents for Oregon.

SIMEON GRIFFIN.

"Drat these pesky March winds, howling and tearing through the house like mad—chilling the very marrow in one's bones, to say nothing of loosening the chimney-pots. I do believe the shingles will rattle down next."

And down went a very large and substantial boot-heel on an unoffending ember which a little while ago had been a very big white hickory chip, then a huge crispy live coal, glowing and flushing like a monstrous ruby, then, growing ashen and gray fast, as indeed everything in the house had of late—the master, pell mell with the rest—fading away in narrowing circles, till only the deep red heart was left, taking all manner of queer and grotesque shapes, now like a Swiss glacier topping with crags, and now the face of the crippled vagabond, who years and years ago, vainly solicited a trifle of this ashen-haired Griffin, who, sitting a lonely man before his solitary hearth, saw old things in a truer light than ever before.

The Swiss glacier and the lean beggar disappeared in one common ruin, and Simeon Griffin moved uneasily as the brand cinder crunched beneath his heel.

While the day died, lower and lower outside, and the shadows grew thicker, and denser under the walnut trees, and the twilight deepened, in the old fashioned room with mottled wainscotting and high black mentel, on which the firelight caused to play a monstrous shadow, which bore a faint resemblance to an ogre on a dolphin's back, but which was undoubtedly Mr. Griffin in his green moreen chair.

There came a timid knock on Simeon Griffin's door. "Come in!" he growled savagely, not half liking the intrusion.

"Mr. Griffin, please, I'd like to take your house, if it's not spoken for. I hope it isn't sir, is it?"

Mr. Griffin sprang up with great impetuosity, and away went the ogre head over heels from the sea-horse's back, and the little woman, who had spoken in a sweet mild voice, took a step nearer the door, a faint alarm in her pale face.

"You want to take my house, Mistress Sanford; and what for, pray? What could you do in this big house, eh?" "I suppose what any other needy tenant would do," was little Mrs. Sanford's brave answer, spoken with a quivering lip: "I suppose you would not mind my letting the two upper bedrooms, Mr. Griffin; they were always let out, and I could keep your part nicely."

"What! And have a lot of rubbishing nobodies tramping and trolloping over my halls and stairways all day and night, smearing the balustrades and door facings with bread and treacle, to say nothing of other dreadful things. I should kill somebody, I know I should. I wonder that you could propose such an impossible thing to me, Mrs. Sanford. True, my house is to be let, but that is to be the end of it. I'll have no sub-letting, ma'am, no bread and treacle on the dark part of the stairs for me, ma'am: no, I really object to any other than a quiet family without incumbrances, and who are not—the adults themselves, I mean—whooping savages. I really wonder at you, Mrs. Sanford, I do."

"Very well, Mr. Griffin, bear witness, I have made the attempt; I have done that which I once thought the tortures of the inquisition could never make me do, ask this of you, sir. I have tried everything—tried to act upright and honorably by the world, and now, if you, and that world will permit my innocent little ones to starve before my eyes, why then you may have that gratification."

And without a word of warning, pretty black eyed Mrs. Sanford threw up her apron over her head, and burst into uncontrollable sobs.

"Whew!" said Mr. Griffin, cold prespiration pouring from his brow and neck, "mercy on us, woman, don't cry; what good will that do? Nobody wants your children to starve; be reasonable. I do object to bread and molasses on the stairs, and I suppose I have that right." Slowly turning in his chair, his look a mixture of guilt and bravado, Mr. Griffin faced whence the sobs had proceeded, and no one was there.

She had gone away, knowing him to be the most flint-hearted, sordid, cruel old villian who ever rolled in luxury, and denied the very dogs the refused morsels from his table.

"Gracious powers! And why should she break out like that and then run away before I had time for a word back? I've never had many dealings with women, and I'm heartily glad of it; I should never understand them, I know. Women and tabby cats are dangerous and tricky creatures. I would about as soon trust one as the other. And the next things to be abominated and held at a safe distance, are noisy, playing youngsters; I can't endure the sight of one. Halloa! where did you come from, Sir Boldboots? Hoity-toity; a pretty way, upon my word, to walk unbidden into a gentleman's house."

"I don't want to go to you, big man; I want mamma, I do. She comed in here, and I want supper, O, so bad."

Mr. Griffin fell back nerveless in the green moreen chair, with very much the air of a man who might have suddenly confronted the spectre of his grandfather in Wellingtons and a cocked hat. He eyed the miniature man sternly; a very pale, thinly-clad little fellow, with a peaked face, in which his large black eyes burned like dusky jewels. The red lips were drawn and feverish from long fasting; his cheeks wofully thin.

Could it be possible that that pretty, bright little child had known the gnawing pangs of a real hunger?

Simeon Griffin actually doted to read of such things on winter nights, when his logs were piled high, his slippered feet toasting on the fender, his punch brewing and his mind at rest; his ear deaf to all entreaties all voices from the outer world. He read of hunger and cold, but he had reached the age of fifty years, knocking up and down in the world, and without ever having once been either the least mite hungry or cold, not like he had read of, and so he did not believe a word of it. It was only in books with flimsy paper covers, and a good deal leaded, that these things occurred.

He held out one pudgy finger to the child.

"Come here, little boy; aren't you afraid of me; eh?"

"No; because I'm thinking of cake, I reckon, and poor little Susie, what ain't had no supper. Susie's our little baby."

"Susie is not hungry too, is she?" Mr. Griffin asked, trying very hard to swallow a big lump, that jumped up and down in his throat like a Jack-in-the-box.

"I guess she is that, and mamma, and all of us. Mamma says the Lord will not let us go hungry, but he does though. I expect he's forgot us. I guess he never knowed Susie, she's so little."

Suddenly Mr. Griffin felt a cold hand laid over his heart, and he wondered if watchful, tender Christ should ever know him half as well or hold him as dear as the baby Susie, who had drunk more deeply of sorrow's cup in her short, innocent little life than he, big, wicked man as he was, had during a long lifetime. Mr. Griffin could not look squarely in that fearless spirit's burning eyes, they hurt him.

He drew the pudgy black finger away, from the thin little fist, and busied himself at a tall, curious buffet which stood in a dim corner.

The wistful black eyes followed him.

Presently Mr. Griffin came back into the firelight, and thrust two enormous buns into the child's hands. "I like you now, big man," Bobby Sanford (that was his name) said, biting with delicious gusto almost two inches in his right-hand cake.

"Did the Lord tell you to give me these?"

"Yes—yes child," and now Mr. Griffin felt that he would actually choke. He kicked the smoldering logs wrathfully with alternate boot-heels, and threw down the shovel and tongs successfully, with loud clangs, looking over his shoulder at the young raven, whom as surely the Lord himself was feeding, as that he had fed multitudes from the five loaves.

"Now let me see you stop eating, young villain, if you dare," Mr. Griffin said, menacingly, as Bobby eyed the last half of the only remaining cake with great longing.

"You said you were hungry, now eat."

"Susie is, too," Bobby replied, with as earnest chivalry and unflinching, unselfish bravery as ever animated a warlike breast at Lucknow.

"I forgot mamma—and the baby—please, sir; I'll take this home. I expect the Lord meant this one for Susie, anyhow."

"Eat it, Bobby, like a good little boy; I kept Susie's by itself, and we are going to take it to her, you and I."

"I like you, big man, now, sure enough." Bobby exclaimed, with great simplicity, exemplifying human nature. Give unto me without stint, and thou shalt be dear as the apple of my eye.

Bobby picked the crumbs, raven like, from the worn sleeve of his little jacket, and held out his hand confidingly to the "big man" and clutching a bunch of big knotted fingers felt very safe with one whom the Lord had sent to him. Basket in hand Mr. Griffin and Bobby wended their way silently down the dusty road, and under the shaggy trees, to Bobby's forlorn little house, through whose curtainless window hard hearted Simeon Griffin looked on tip-toes, struggling manfully with that lump in his throat at the sight of a despairing little figure, rocking to and fro, a checked apron thrown over the glossy head, while babie Susie dabbled with the black tresses, and forgot what she had cried for.

"Hurrah! Susie; here's lots of cake, I tell you! and a pot of jam. I seen him slip it in the basket, sure enough."

Bobby, even in his short life, had become familiar with delusions, anything that could be counted on as real, genuine, and "sure enough" was appreciated by him.

"My! how you frightened me, Mr Griffin. I'll get a chair in one moment."

The black eyes were dried stealthily on one corner of the checked apron, but it was no use, they just ran down fast as ever, and she gave them their way, those sorrowful tears."

"Hand a chair, Bobby, can't you?"

But Bobby and round-eyed Susie were already deep in the mysteries of the covered basket, a discovering committee of two, exploring for jam.

Simeon Griffin stood uneasily turning his broadrimmed hat round and round in his fingers, trying not to look anybody in the face, feeling more guilty in one sense, than he had ever felt in all his life before, and glad, from the bottom of his heart for the mask of night which would enable him to go his way, unseen by the censorious and carping people who had been all their lives busy about him.

"I have this to say, ma'am, if you'll only listen to it. I don't know as I meant to refuse you my house; you took me sudden, and, may be, I said things I didn't mean. But I'd like to have somebody to look after things; my house-keeper left yesterday, and I don't think I can get along very well all alone in the place, and it you'd like to take charge of the house, just as Mrs. Withrow did, why—you may—I'd be glad to have you, and these little tots here, but nobody else, we are to have no spare chambers to let out."

"O, dear Mr. Griffin; you don't mean it. You are too good."

"Yes, he is, ain't he mar?" said Bobby, smeared with goodies.

"What! crying again! What for pray? Ain't you satisfied yet? You are to come to-morrow, and it's all right, and—"

On went the broad-brimmed hat. "Lordy, I've got to get out of this, or make an old fool of myself," And before anybody could say Jack Robinson, or anything else, for the matter of that, Mr. Griffin was out of the forlorn little house and in the white road again, scudding along like a lad sixteen. And a great cloud had fled from before him—a leaden bolt had been withdrawn from the deepest door of his heart, and the spring air and the pure, pale starlight was pouring in.

Soon the isolated house, behind the scanty shrubs, put on air of thrift and new life. The soft April air blew unrestricted in at the opened windows, vines were trained over the barren porch, and two merry little voices were heard all day long trilling happily in those no longer dark and silent rooms.

One day at sunset, when all the sky was red, and the homely hollyhocks glowed answeringly from their tall stems, Bobby and Susie made a great wreath of green and bright colored things, and laid it reverently on the gray head of the "big man."

Susie was a great big girl now, walking everywhere in her gorgeous red shoes and talking everything with her dainty cordial lips.

She clapped her hands gleefully.

"Mamma, I likes Missy Griffin, and Bobby likes Missy Griffin, and I dees we'll teep him all the time, for our'n, won't we Bobby?"

Here Susie underwent a terrific squeeze, and grunted audibly, her golden head completely hidden by a huge dock leaf, which hung gracefully down from "Missy Griffin's" reaf, as Susie called the tremendous affair, they had gotten up between them.

"You like Missy Griffin mamma?" Susie asked after a minute.

"Yes Susie."

"Then I dess we'll every one of us teep him."

"You have not asked me about this, Miss Sanford," Mr. Griffin said, with a heavenly cloud on him. "I may want to teep something as well as you and Bobby—what do you think I want, Susie?" Susie looked scared. "I dunno, sir."

"I shant take her away from you and Bobby, dear; but I want to share mamma with you. She can love me a little, I suppose."

"Yes, a heap," said Susie; much relieved.

"She'll love you, Missy Griffin lots. You may have her a little."

And Susie unconsciously surrendered up a greater part of her mother's heart than she knew then, and her wee hands fluttered over the gray head, invoking, it might be, the blessing of heaven on Simeon Griffin, whose bosom was overflowing with joy.

And it continued so to be with him, in spite of the whole village declaring with uplifted hands, that "Simeon Griffin had made a fool of himself in his old days."

GEO. E. COLE, P. M.

Cure for Catarrh.—Although a catarrh of itself is not to be classed with the dangerous diseases, it is always troublesome, and if the bronchiæ become affected a favorable termination, especially with aged persons, is not always certain. A remedy for this affection, as suggested by Dr. Hagar, is as follows: Five parts of carbolic acid, six of qua ammoniæ, specific gravity 0.960, ten of distilled water, and fifteen of alcohol are to be mixed together in a wide-mouthed bottle, half filled with cotton or asbestus, and snuffed up from time to time from the bottle. After a thorough trial of this prescription Dr. Brand states that it shortens the first stage of the disease, prevents the second, and alleviates all the symptoms. He prefers, however, to apply it by inhalation through the mouth as well as the nose, by pouring a few drops on porous paper, and holding it in the hollow of the hand before the face, with the eyes closed.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

Friday Evening, June 6, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 118.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 84½ buying; 85½ selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 800 fine.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average California, 12s 1d@12s 3d, club, 12s 6d.

We find in our latest exchanges from the East, many comments on the late disturbance of the finances of Europe produced by the panic in Vienna and its effect on monetary affairs in our own country. We are not, it is true, within the pale of direct influence of foreign interference, yet relations are such that every commercial center in civilized countries of the globe feel the effects, to a greater or less degree, that in the language of another, "drive the needle around the dial plate, in its record of the course of trade." The New York Herald, in contemplating the condition of affairs on the Continent and in England, resulting from the panic before mentioned, say that for several years past, Austria has been the locale of as many wild-cat speculations as ever disgraced any community in the world. Money was abundant, credit as free as the air, and men rushed, thoughtless of the settling day, into every scheme that promised profit. Associations were formed for various purposes with millions for their capital. Stock was heavily watered and shares flooded the market. Speculations proved rotten, and, at last, the failure of one of the financial houses of the Austrian capital, pricked the bubble and fully developed the extent of the money-making mania. Profound depression followed. Frankfort responded to the tremulous condition and Berlin was moved to a scarcely less degree. The wave of disturbance swept through Paris to London, where it received its check. A few years ago a financial panic in Vienna would have been like a ripple against a rock. Now, however, so intimately identified with each other are these money centers, that commercial injury to one necessarily affects all. Thus Vienna borrowed from Berlin and Frankfort, they from Paris, and all four asked London for help. England, however, had not enough available capital to supply the whole continent, and therefore, after sending abroad what could be spared, made money artificially dear in order to compel an economy of consumption. The rate of discount was advanced to 6 per cent, and the stability of English resources has been daily exemplified since that time in the steadiness of the London market and the active demand for all profitable securities. Among these, consols have shown their strength during the week at 94, United States' new fives at 89½@¼, ten-forties at 88⅝@88⅞, while the rate of discount for three months' bills in open market is fully 1 per cent below that of the Bank of England. The English market, therefore, at the present moment, is free from the fictitious influences that precede the Vienna crisis, and has been a double gainer from the proper precaution, taken at the right moment, directly by the enhanced value it charges for all advances, and indirectly in the gain that has resulted to every investor. The confidence thus engendered reached our own mart, and in the generally steady operations of the past week, dull as the markets may have been occasionally, we have proof of the intimate relationship between the two greatest money centers of the world.

Crops, Etc.

From all portions of the country east of the Cascades mountains we learn that crops of all kinds are in the best possible condition, the late rains having wet the ground deep enough, and the temperature having been such as to cause a very rapid growth, and just sufficient to insure a large yield. The grain crop never, at this season of the year, looked and promised so well as at present. The late frosts did some damage to early vegetables, but new crops have been put in and are now doing well. The fruit crop was somewhat damaged by frost, and at one time it was feared the entire crop was destroyed; but such, fortunately, is not the case. There will be an abundance of fruit, of all kinds, throughout the valley. Our people have cause to rejoice over the prospect of good and abundant crops this year, with a reasonable hope that prices will be such as to remunerate the producer.

Vessels Coming.

Under the head of vessels on the way to Portland, the Commercial Reporter publishes the following:

Br bk Hermine, Liverpool, assorted merchandise, left January 12th, 1873, to Janion & Rhodes.
Br bk Vesta, from Liverpool, to Janion & Rhodes, sailed April 12th.
Am bk Garibaldi from Hongkong.
Bk Rival, from San Francisco, to Master.
Bkt Melancthon, from San Francisco, to Master.
Br bk Shylet, Liverpool, via Victoria, B. C., assorted merchandise, to Janion & Rhodes.
Bk Forward, Hongkong, to Master.
Bkt Webfoot, from San Francisco.
Schr W. H. Myers, from San Francisco to J. McCraken & Co.
Brig Orient, from San Francisco.
Br ship Middlesex, 1,191 tons, from San Francisco, to Laidlaw & Gate.
Schr H. L. Tiernan, from San Francisco to J. McCraken & Co.
Schr Mag Crockard, from San Francisco, to J. McCraken & Co.

Miscellaneous.

The April-May Wool sales in London began April 24 h and lasted until May 31st. A late London circular reports a large attendance at the sale and spirited bidding. Prices for average grades were well sustained, though the finest kinds were a trifle lower and greasy kinds higher. The sale will be shortly followed by an offering of low grades, of which 210,000 bales have already been catalogued.

California raised 700 tons of Broom Corn last year. This year her crops will probably not exceed 400 tons.

The total mercantile marine of the world is estimated at 15,000,000; of this Great Britain owns one half, the latest official returns placing the tonnage of its shipping at 7,250,000 tons. Estimating their value at £12 per ton, the capital invested in these vessels amounts to £86,000,000. The estimated value of ships and cargoes sailing to and from the ports of Great Britain annually is estimated at £600,000,000. The steam shipping employed in the freight and coasting trade has increased from 104,680 tons in 1850 to 1,000,000 tons in 1870.

It is now pretty generally conceded that the fears that the Coal mines of the world would be ultimately exhausted, were groundless. Recent developments indicate the existence of enough Coal west of the Rocky mountains to supply the world for ages.

The Wool growers of several counties in Oregon are moving in the matter of securing higher prices for the staple than are now ruling. We trust their efforts will be successful.

The British ship Middlesex, under charter to load wheat for the United Kingdom by Laidlaw & Gate, will, upon her arrival, be the largest vessel that has ever visited our waters.

The number of eggs received so far, is over one-half more than last year, and still they come. The average value per week shipped to California is nearly $1,902.

A pilot boat, officered and manned by experienced bar pilots, will remain at all times outside of the bar. This innovation will be hailed, by all engaged in shipping, with delight.

The Reporter estimates that within the past week, by the three steamships and by the sailing vessel for China, cargoes have been sent from this port of the value of $215,600.

To Sufferers:

The above establishment has been opened for the treatment of all Chronic and Private Diseases, in males as well as females, where all who are suffering from any of those dreadful ailments can find relief.

Young men having weakened and injured their constitutions by secret habits, need have no fear in calling and consulting me, as all communications are strictly confidential, and sure of a permanent cure where treatment is followed.

Special attention given to the treatment of stricture, and to all who are suffering from such, I can warrant a cure.

Diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Piles, Dropsy, Cancers, and all other ailments successfully treated.

To Ladies who are dragging out a life of misery, on account of debility, sterility, menstruation, and many other diseases peculiar to the sex, can find relief by calling.

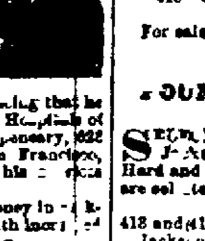
The celebrated FEMALE REGULATOR PILLS sent free by mail to any address on receipt of $5 00 per box. Certain and safe in all cases.

Office consultation free of charge. All communications strictly confidential. Office hours, 11 A. M. to 4. P. M., and 7 to 9 P. M. DR. C. G. GLASS.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary.



623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life destroying maladies, see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill to curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians in Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noises like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confusion of ideas, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flush pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED.

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the great necessity of first ridding themselves of them; and obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is in possession of this, and will give to every patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Post Office, or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and elsewhere, are tradesmen and have been too lazy too work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.

Election Notice.

Notice is hereby given that on the third Monday, the 16th day of June, 1873, a general election will be held in the several wards of the city of Portland for the following named purposes:

For the election of
One Mayor,
One Police Judge,
One City Treasurer,
One City Attorney, each for the term of two years.
One member of the Common Council, in the first, second and third wards, respectively, each for the term of three years.

The Common Council, in pursuance of section 152 of the act to incorporate the city of Portland, as amended by the Act approved October 21st, 1870, contemplate incurring an indebtedness of four hundred thousand dollars for the purpose of providing and erecting water works, wherely to supply a constant and sufficient supply of good and wholesome water at reasonable rates; and to this end it is contemplated by said Common Council to purchase all and singular the water works, rights, reservoirs, franchises, privileges and property, both real and personal, now owned, possessed or claimed by the Portland Water Company, situate and being in Multnomah county, Oregon, for the sum of two hundred and forty thousand dollars gold coin, or gold bonds of the city, and the redemption and payment by the city of sixty thousand dollars of currency bonds heretofore issued by said company, payable at the city of New York in the year 1880 with interest payable semi annually in currency at the rate of seven per cent. per annum. And from time to time as the Common Council may direct, to apply the remainder of said four hundred thousand dollars, after making provision for the payments above specified, in laying down additional and larger water mains, and otherwise enlarging and improving the fitness and capacity of said water works, for extinguishing and preventing fires, and for supplying the city and the inhabitants thereof with good and wholesome water, and in sufficient quantity.

The money for the purpose above named to be procured by the sale of "Portland Water Bonds," for an amount not exceeding four hundred thousand dollars, payable in U. S. gold coin in not less than twenty nor more than thirty years from the date thereof, with interest payable semi-annually, at not to exceed ten per cent. per annum, as more fully set forth and provided by Ordinance No. 1313, entitled "An ordinance submitting to the voters of the city of Portland the question of incurring an indebtedness to provide and erect water works for said city, whereby said city and the inhabitants thereof may be supplied with good and wholesome water, and for the construction, improvement and management of the same, in case a majority of said votes shall be given in favor of incurring said indebtedness," provided, the legal voters of said city shall authorize such indebtedness to be incurred.

At said election the voters of the city will vote whether the Council may or may not incur said indebtedness for said purposes, and express, by writing or printing upon the ballot deposited by such voter, if in favor thereof, the words "FOR INDEBTEDNESS," and if opposed thereto, the words "AGAINST INDEBTEDNESS."

The places designated in each ward for holding the election, and the judges and clerks appointed to conduct the same, are as follows:

First Ward—At Armory Hall, Stark street. Judges, George H. Flanders, R. R. Thompson and D. W. Burnside. Clerks, E. F. Albright and A. C. Ripley.

Second Ward—No. 1 Engine House, Morrison street. Judges, J. H. Woodard, Jacob Mayer and A. H. Morgan. Clerks, A. E. Borthwick and B. G. Whitehouse.

Third Ward—At No. 1 Stable, corner Front and Market streets. Judges, F. Harbaugh, John Birch and A. G. Hammond. Clerks, J. A. Waters and Andrew Hill.

Said election will commence at 9 o'clock A. M., and will continue until 6 o'clock of the same day without closing the polls.

By order of the Common Council.
